PERU MUSTERS RESERVISTS AS UPRISING GAINS

Censorship Clamped On as Rebels Take City of Arequipa.

MUTINOUS SOLDIERS KILL LOYAL OFFICERS

Report of Revolt Over South Unconfirmed; Planes Begin Surveys.

Lima, Peru, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Airplanes and reservists were mobilized today to quell an uprising in southern Peru which has arisen to menace the government of Provisional President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro.

With a strict censorship in effect, it was impossible to confirm reports that the entire southern half of the country was in revolt against the regime of Sanchez Cerro, who himself is a revolutionary president, but the government admitted in an official statement that the large city of Arequipa was captured by revolting troops Friday night and several loyal officers had been killed in its defense.

The Arequipa uprising followed by only a few hours a revolt at Callao, port of Lima, just outside the capital, in which some 60 persons were killed before the movement was suppressed and 39 were arrested for court-martial.

Troops March on Arequipa.

Today Government airplanes took off from Lima to fly over Arequipa and survey the situation, while 1,600 reserves between the ages of 21 and 30 were called into active service for 60 days. They will be incorporated into regiments of the second military region at Lima and Callao.

In addition, it was stated, loyal troops from Cuzco, Puno, Juliaca and Tacna were stated to be marching on Arequipa to crush the rebellion.

When the revolt began at Arequipa several loyal officers were killed, including Lieut. Col. Gamarra, the divisional commander, and Capt. Gomez Sanchez. A number of enlisted men also died.

As soon as it learned of the trouble, the central government at Lima immediately shut off traffic to Mollendo, seaport for Arequipa, and also closed the Mollendo Airport to all except government traffic.

Legua Adherents Blamed.

The movement at Callao was sponsored by adherents of Augusto B. Legua, the former president, who was deposed by the August revolution and now is in thenational penitentiary at Lioa. It was understood, however, the Arequipa uprising had no connection with Legua and instead was declared to fulfill the August revolution.

This Arequipa revolt is starting in the same area as that which made Sanchez Cerro provisional president in August. The president at that time was a lieutenant colonel in the army. He began a revolt at Arequipa which soon resulted in the overthrow of the Lima Government and his installation in the national palace amid wild acclaimation. His regime since has been marked by much trouble and dissension, accentuated by the economic distress which has afflicted Peru as well as the rest of the world.

Meanwhile the government is preparing for an early trial of the 39 prisoners arrested after Friday's abortive revolutionary attempt at Callao, in which about 60 persons were killed.

The trials probably will be started

BLONDE AND DAGUE NEAR DEATH CHAIR

Irene Schroeder and Aid to Die This Morning for Killing Patrolman.

Rockview Penitentiary, Near Bellefonte, Pa., Feb. 22 (A.P.).—With each stroke of the prison clock pendulum shortening their span of life, Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague waited quietly for death tonight, apparently facing the realization that they must pay with their lives for the murder of a State highway patrolman.

When the hour hand of the clock reaches the figure "7" tomorrow morning, the blonde, who forsook the prosaic life of waitress to blaze a trail of crime halfway across the continent, will be led from her cell in "death row" to the gleaming electric chair. Mrs. Schroeder probably will die first, Warden Stanley P. Aabe said. In any event, it will be a matter of minutes before each will have paid his debt to society.

The order ahead of them apparently holds no terror for either the temperamental blonde or her paramour.

Both drifted into an untroubled sleep between 10 and 11 o'clock last night. They were called for breakfast at approximately 7 o'clock this morning. They seemed refreshed and appeared unmindful of the fact that they had but 24 hours more to live.

After eating heartily of a breakfast consisting of grapefruit, soft boiled eggs, bacon, toast and coffee, Mrs. Schroeder asked if she might have some "funny papers"—comic supplements of Sunday newspapers. They were supplied and she read them with apparent pleasure.

Dague's breakfast was the same as Irene's, excepting that his masculine appetite was sated with an order of pancakes.

Irene, who, at 22, will be the first woman ever to be electrocuted in Pennsylvania and the second in the United States, said a final farewell to her father, Joseph Crawford, and her brother, John Crawford, this morning. The two men spent about 40 minutes with the doomed woman and then said good-by to Dague.

When they had gone Mrs. Schroeder was left alone with her thoughts, and, with the exception of the Rev. H. O. Teagarden, of Elm Grove, W. Va., whom she has chosen as her spiritual adviser, she will see no one from the outside world excepting prison attaches until she looks upon the dozen official witnesses and newspapermen in the grim death chamber tomorrow morning.

Likewise, Dague will see no visitors other than the Rev. Mr. Teagarden. Dague, who left a life of respectability as an automobile and insurance salesman to follow a life of crime with Irene, once taught a Sunday school class in the Rev. Mr. Teagarden's church.

It was this criminal career, climaxed by the murder of Corpl. Brady Paul, of the State highway patrol, on a wind-swept highway near Newcastle, on December 27, 1929, which led the

AMERICAN MATADOR GORED IN BULL FIGHT

Franklin Slips in Mexican Exhibition; Has Right Leg Injured.

Nuevo Laredo, Mex., Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Sydney Franklin, of Brooklyn, N. Y., the only known American matador, was gored through the right leg this afternoon by the fourth bull to appear in an exhibition here today. The animal was disposed of subsequently by Marcial LaLanda, internationally famous Spanish bull fighter.

The fight was a feature of the thirty-third annual Washington's birthday fiesta in Laredo, Texas, across the Rio Grande.

The bull ring had the largest crowd in its history, being jammed with nearly 9,000 spectators. Fully 3,000 were turned away.

Friendly rivalry of Mexico and America was evident, with one bullfighter American and the other Spanish. Cries of "Viva Lalanda" were mingled with choruses of "Atta boy, Franklin."

Lalanda killed the first bull, a fierce animal, with a perfect death thrust. Franklin, alternating, made a good play with the second animal.

Lalanda killed the third animal easily, drawing long plaudits from the crowd. Early in his encounter with the fourth animal, Franklin slipped on soft sand and was at the mercy of the fierce, charging black bull for several minutes, before picadores finally distracted the enraged animal's attention.

Franklin leaped to his feet and started waving a red flag at the animal but Lalanda, seeing Franklin's bleeding leg, rushed to the rescue.

Mrs. L. C. Thomas Marries Lawyer

Col. Ament's Divorced Wife Wedded Third Time by Same Cleric.

New York, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Mrs. Lucy Cotton Thomas, widow of Edward G. Thomas, publisher and turfman, and divorced wife of Col. Lytton Gray Ament, was married February 7 in Towson, Md., to Lieut. Comdr. Charles Hann, jr., it was announced tonight.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. D. Clark, of Towson, who officiated at the two previous weddings of the famous international actress.

On the death of Mr. Thomas, former owner of the Morning Telegraph, Mrs. Thomas came into several million dollars and her daughter, Lucetta, was left $5,000,000. Mrs. Thomas was divorced in Reno, Nev., on May 26, 1930, from Col. Ament. Lieut. Comdr. Hann is a member of the Wall street law firm of Hann & Rapp and was a tackle on the Harvard football team in 1910 and 1911.

Few Other Odds and Ends on Slate Before Adjournment.

EXTRA-SESSION TALK GOES INTO OBLIVION

Meyer Confirmation Also Is Expected During Eight Remaining Days.

(Associated Press.)

Congress will act on Muscle Shoals and a few legislative odds and ends this week preparatory to adjournment on March 4.

Virtually all of the necessary work has been completed and talk of an extra session has subsided.

In the eight and a half legislative days remaining all manner of legislative propositions are due for thrashing out, but final action on few major ones, except the long-pending Muscle Shoals bill is considered probable.

The Senate today will consider the conference report adjusting differences between the Senate and House over dispositino of the gigantic power and nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals, Ala., which already has been approved by the House.

Senate approval is in prospect, but whether President Hoover will sign the measure is doubtful.

On Wednesday or Thursday the President will return to Congress with a bristling veto message on the veterans' loan bill, but Congress is prepared to rush it to the statute boks over the veto.

Drive for Meyer.

This week also will see a determined drive in the Senate for the confirmation of Eugene Meyer, of New York, as governor of the Federal Reserve Board.

Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, has been waging a determned fight against the nominee but a substantial majority for Meyer is predicted by his friends if a vote can be reached.

An effort to force action in the closing days on the naval construction bill and the oil embargo measure is expected but congressional leaders see little chance for final enactment of either with stiff opposition facing both proposals.

Some hope for emergency immigration restriction is held. The Jenkins bill providing a 90 per cent cut in immigration a due for House approval this week. The Senate immigration commitee is prepared to give it an immediate endorsement.

Supply Bill Also Due.

All but two of the appropriation measure carrying the billions for next year's operation of the Government have been sent to the White House.

One of the two—the Navy supply bill—has passed both the Senate and House and the conference report adjusting differences between the two will be taken up this week.

The other is the urgent deficiency measure carrying funds to meet emergency legislation. It has passed the House and will be put through the Senate this week.

DRYS CLAIMING LEAD IN SITTING OF DEMOCRATS

Prepare to Outvote Wets at National Committee Meeting, March 5.

LEADERS WILL FIGHT RAISING LIQUOR ISSUE

Move Is Made to Avoid Discussing Policies Until Convention Time.

(Associated Press.)

Enough votes to defeat a wet resolution at the March 5 meeting of the Democratic national committee were claimed yesterday by Senator Morrison, of North Carolina.

The prohibition storm has broken with full force over the Democrats as a result of persistent and undenied reports that Chairman Raskob of the national committee intends to seek a commitment of the party against national prohibition at the special meeting.

Senator Morrison's claim yesterday revealed a movement by the drys to prepare for any prohibition contest which may arise at the conference, Senator Morrison will represent North Carolina at the meetings.

Liquor Dodge Preferred.

While the militant prohibition faction of the party is arming for action, the veteran Democratic chieftains on Capitol Hill are moving to avert the threatened prohibition outbreak by calling off the reported wet resolution.

The support of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the party leader in the Senate and Vice Presidential candidate with Alfred E. Smith in the 1928 campaign, is counted upon by the drys if the issue comes to a showdown.

Senator George, of Georgia, the Presidential candidate of his State in the 1928 convention, has joined with the Democratic leaders who contend the prohibition issue is not one for consideration by the national committee.

Questions Policy Debates.

"I have never assumed," said George yesterday, "that the national committee will undertake to discuss any policies. In my opinion the committee has no jurisdiction touching party policies except to safeguard and consider infernal affairs, including the debts. I feel that internal affairs are the real purpose back of the March 5 meeting."

Meanwhile, Democratic President booms are budding, and the antiprohibition faction of the party is putting forth most of the candidates.

Gov. Roosevelt of New York is mentioned frequently here in Democratic discussions. He has declared for repeal of national prohibition.

Lewis Boom Opens.

Saturday night in Chicago the Illinois Democrats formally opened a campaign for James Hamilton Lewis, senator-elect, for the Presidency.

The recent inaugural speech of Gov. Ritchie of Maryland, another antiprohibitionist, has been interpreted

New 'Butler Incident' Seen in O'Brian Talk

Aid to Attorney General Cites Italy in Wage Scale Control.

New York, Feb. 22 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Another "Butler incident" is seen by New York Italians in the speech made by John Lord O'Brian, assistant to the Attorney General of the United States, at the Union League Club of Brooklyn last night. In the course of his address on the manner in which the American wage scale has held up in the face of the industrial depression, Mr. O'Brian said:

("Thank God, we do not live in a country such as Italy, where a dictatorship of one man can make a horizontal slice in wages."

Il Pregdesso, local Italian daily, today informed the Italian Ambassador at Washington of Mr. O'Brian's remarks, requesting that he demand an explanation as to why a high official of the United States should be permitted to make such a statement about the head of a friendly nation.

The ambassador had no comment to make and received the information without any exchange of ideas on the subject.

Local Italians, however, expressed indignation. Although they recognized that Mr. O'Brian's statement was by no means as serious as that recently made in Philadelphia by Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler of the United States Marine Corps, nevertheless they believed an explanation, if not an apology, was in order.

Gen. Butler had repeated a story to the effect that Mussolini had once run down a child with his automobile, afterwards driving on with a remark "What is one life when compared with the affairs of the state?"

The State Department promptly issued an apology for the Butler

DRY FORCES OUTLINE CAMPAIGN FOR 1932

Program Awaits Approval Today; Warning Given to Democrats.

(Associated Press.)

Plans for a general mobilization of the dry forces, with an eye to the 1932 presidential campaign, yesterday awaited only the final approval of a conference of 33 prohibition organizations, scheduled to meet here today.

Meantime, there came a warning to the Democratic party from the Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance to "stop slapping Democratic dry sentiment in the face" and to keep "moral issues" out of the 1932 campaign.

The board, in its weekly clip-sheet, recalled the recent airing in the Senate of differences over prohibition among Southern senators. It indorsed the statement of Senator Morrison, of North Carolina, that the Democratic party will find itself in trouble if it takes the wet side of the prohibition issue.

Plans for the new campaign of dry groups were prepared at an executive meeting Saturday of the "board of strategy," chosen late last year by the national conference of organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment.

The strategy board will meet again today for a final touching up of its plan of campaign, and will lay the result before the national conference meeting tonight. The members also expect to give some consideration to the Wickersham Commission's prohibition data, now before the Senate.

A statement was issued yesterday by Frank Buckley, who conducted a survey of liquor conditions in Wisconsin and eleven other States, for the commission. Although reiterating liquor was plentiful in Wisconsin, Buckley said it was "no more or no less so than in other States" visited by him.

The former Prohibition Bureau attorney praised the police organization of the city of Milwaukee, saying it was one of the most effective in the country and that its effectiveness was demonstrated in the low percentage of serious crimes and a lack of gangster activities.

In its statement yesterday the Methodist board quoted a long list of extracts from statements made during the 1928 presidential campaign, all of the mcontending the "solid South"

JOLIET GUARDS KILL 3 FLEEING CONVICTS

Men, Lowering Selves Over Walls to Freedom, Are Shot Down.

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Two convicts were killed and a third fatally wounded as they were lowering themselves to freedom over the 20-foot wall of the Illinois State Penitentiary just before dawn today.

All three were serving sentences from Cook County. Two were killed by the first blast of guns in the hands of guards, warned in advance of the break and ambushed for it. They were Joseph Norkiewicz, 31, and Julio Chileno, 30, both convicted on a confidence game charge.

Alvin J. Kilman, 34, serving for robbery, died several hours later in the prison hospital.

The big stone prison, housing 1,800 men, was quiet today and Col. Frank D. Whipp, State prison head, temporarily in charge, said there was no prison-wide unrest and none expected. The three men were members of a kitchen detail of five, and the plot was confined to that group, Col. Whipp said. The other two scuttled to safety.

Warned three weeks ago of the attempted break, penitentiary officials had placed extra guard details around the outside walls. The three men never had a chance to get away. They were focused in the huge prison searchlight and made a certain target for the guards as they tried frantically to get away from the hail of death.

Norkiewicz was serving 10 years. Kilman was doing 20 years and Chileno 10. Previously Chileno had served jail terms in Paterson, N. J., Baltimore, Trenton, N. J., and Flint, Mich.

Col. Whipp has been in charge of the institution during the illness of Warden W. R. Hill.

The kitchen detail went on duty at 3 o'clock in the morning. The men worked 100 yards from the prison wall. With a ladder made of odds and ends of lumber, they scaled a 10-foot wall abutting the outside wall. They had a steel cable which they hooked over the outside wall.

Norkiewicz was the first to clamber down; Chileno followed. Kilman was just beginning the descent, when the order came from the guards lying in ambush across the street, to halt.

Norkiewicz plunged straight ahead into the muzzles of machine guns that were spitting death. Norkiewicz, a giant in stature, fell, arose

NATION'S HONOR TO WASHINGTON LED BY HOOVER

Executive Seated in Pew Where First President Made Devotions.

TRIBUTE TO FOUNDER CENTERS IN CHURCHES

Legion and Other Patriotic Bodies Plan Exercises for Today.

Led by President Hoover, who made a trip to Alexandria to worship in historic Christ Church, where George Washington made his devotions, the Nation paid its main tributes to the first President yesterday in the churches.

President Hoover occupied the same pew which was frequently used by Washington, and was accompanied by Mrs. Hoover and their grandchild, Peggy Ann Hoover, who was attending her first church service.

They heard the rector, Dr. William Jackson Morton, read the text for his sermon on the religious life of Washington from the old Washington family Bible, presented to the church in 1804 by George Washington Parke Custis.

Rector Almost Barred.

The church was filled to capacity even before the President arrived. A great crowd stood before the gates and a detail of Alexandria police refused admittance to any one, after the church was filled. This vigilance almost made the President miss his Sunday sermon.

When President and Mrs. Hoover arrived, they entered the east gate of the church grounds and were escorted to the Washington pew by Dr. Henry Augustine Latane, descendant of the Washington family, and David N. Rust, junior warden of the church.

Dr. Morton arrived a few moments later. He was duly stopped by the police and told that the church was filled, and that he could not enter. Dr. Morton finally convinced the policemen that if he did not enter there would be no service.

Fount Lining Presented.

Mrs. Morton had driven the rector to the church. She was delayed for some minutes in finding a parking place for the family car, but finally made her appearance at the west gate. She, too, was refused admittance, and finally had to find Police Sergt. Lawrence Padgett to identify her, in order to hear her husband's Washington sermon.

As part of the service, a silver lining to the baptismal font of the church was presented by Miss Helen Chapman Calvert, of Alexandria. The lining was made from old silver that had been a crescent, given by John Alexander to his brother, Charles Alexander. John Alexander was the great-great-grandfather of Miss Calvert, and was the donor of the land upon which Christ Church is built.

The lining is of beaten silver and extends over the flange of the marble basin, with a wreath of ivy leaves. Ivy leaves from the walls of Christ Church were used as patterns by the silversmiths, as was done when the children of the late Mrs. Mary Fleming, daughter of Col Richard Bland Lee, presented the church with massive silver alms basins, in memory of their mother.

Memorial at Pohick.

Memorial services were held yesterday at historic Pohick Church in Fairfax County. Augustine Washington, father of the first President, was a vestryman of the original Pohick Church, which was located about 2 miles south of the present structure. George Washington later was a vestryman of the original Pohick Church, and made plans for the new structure. The services were attended by officers of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Virginia, the George Washington National Memorial Association and about 500 other persons.

Members of the Latin-American Diplomatic Corps observed the day yesterday by displaying their national

Violence Stamps Eve Of Chicago Balloting

Beatings and Kidnapings, With Attempt on Life of Aldermanic Candidate, Reported as Officials Mobilize 70,000 Guards for Election.

Chicago, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Preelection violence ran rampant in Chicago tonight.

Two sluggings, two kidnappings and an attempt upon the life of an aldermanic candidate were reported to officials as they rallied an army of 70,000 persons for a guard against fraud and disorder in Tuesday's city primaries.

Rumor placed Alphonse Capone back in town from his winter sojourn at Miami, but police were disinclined to believe he had returned for the Tuesday primaries. Rather, they thought, he was preparing for appearance in Federal Court Wednesday.

The disturbances tonight were centered in the eighth and thirtieth wards, both outlying. In the eighth ward Theodore Clifford, candidate for alderman, told police that two shots had been fired at him from another automobile. One of the bullets broke the windshield on his car and he was cut by glass.

In the Thirtieth Ward Bernard Sheehan, 27, and John C. Grady, 30, said they were seized by hoodlums and beaten as they handed out cards advocating the election of John O'Shay over Alderman John S. Clark. Two other unnamed men were reported by O'Shay headquarters to have been taken away in curtained automobiles, slugged and then set free on the edge of the city.

Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, as supervisor of the election, said that credentials as poll watchers have been issued to 45,000 persons. In addition the usual 15,000 judges and clerks of election and 5,000 policemen, coupled with a special city and county force of several thousand "trouble shooters" will be on duty.

More than a dozen attorneys foregathered under former Gov. Edward Dunne to receive final instructions in their work as a special legal staff to handle cases of fraud.

None of the mayoralty candidates in the heated Republican race—Mayor William Hal Thompson, Judge John H. Lyle, Arthur F. Albert or George K. Schmidt—have called for police guards.

Open Jetty Is Wrecked By Surf at Ocean City

Special to The Washington Post.

Ocean City, Md., Feb. 22.—One of the open jetties at the south end of the Board Walk here was partially washed away today by a heavy surf which has been running since Friday. No property loss had been reported up to a late hour tonight, according to Mayor W. W. McCabe.

Mayor McCabe estimated that the damaged jetty represented a loss of from $3,400 to $4,000.

Tourist Discovers 'Bomb' Near Offices of Senators

Suspected Missile Placed in Police Station Until Authorities Ascertain Whether It Still Contains Explosives; Is Believed "Souvenir."

Police of the Sixth Precinct trod gingerly over the well-worn boards of the station house las tnight, pending a final and official pronouncement on the status of a "bomb" that was reclining at ease in a little-used corner of the station house.

It was found in an excavation just west of the Senate Office Building yesterday morning when a casual visiter, Charles Earley, of Dongin Hill, Staten Island, N. Y., noticed its roundity and scraped some of the mud from its surface. The more he scraped the more the object resembled a bomb, and Mr. Earley reached a point where his distrust overcame his curiosity.

At that point the police were called and the rusty and still somewhat mud-encrusted object was escorted to the station house in true military style. Once there, it was placed as far from habitation as possible and today it will be turned over to some one who can, with authority, pronounce sentence on its genuiness. Meanwhile, police do not know whether the explosive contents that were once in the bomb are still there, or whether the thing is a dud.

From all appearances the bomb, if such it be, has been in the ground for years. It is thought it was a souvenir of the war, and was thrown away on the vacant lot, where it was found yesterday.

Miami Crusaders Embrace Carrie Nation Standards

100 Women Band to Put Lid on Vice, Liquor and Gambling in Florida Resort, Minister Announces; Conditions Deplored in Resolution.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Walt Holcomb, Miami minister, today announced a committee of 100 women, bearing the standards of Carrie Nation, had organized to rid this city of vice, crime and lawlessness.

In the meantime, members of the Greater Miami Ministerial Association adopted a resolution deploring conditions in the Miami area.

The resolution charged "evidences on every side of gambling, bootlegging and prostitution," and asserted "the condition must measurably be known to those in authority."

The committee of 100 women is not associated with the Committee of 100, an organization of wealthy residents of Miami Beach. The Committee of 100 recently demanded that the gambling "lid" be clamped down permanently at Miami Beach.

While the ministers and the committee of 100 women considered plans for drives on lawlessness deputy sheriffs raided a house near the business center, marched 400 patrons through the doors and arrested four men on charges of gambling and unlawful possession of gaming devices.

The men gave their names as A. E. Andrews, James Stout, J. Zev and [illegible] Terry, all of Miami.

The place raided today was recently visited by masked bandits who lined 75 patrons against the wall and picked up approximately $9,000 from the tables.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

If the Gavernment ever needs to give work to the unemployed an enlarged system of reforestation would be a partial solution free from objection. It would not interfere with rates of wages or marketing of production in any of the existing industries. Operation could cease without loss.

Every one knows we are rapidly exhausting our timber supply. The authorities state that of an original 800,000,000 acres of virgin forest only about 140,000,000 acres remain. Annually forest fires sweep over 12,000,000 acres. We are cutting off 10,000,000 acres more, which is about four times as much as is replaced by natural growth. We have planted less than 2,000,000 acres.

The Nation and some of the States already have acquired much land for growing timber. Compared with what is needed only a slight beginning has been made in reforestation. Because it has no immediate effect and would serve no private interest, governments have been too slow to conserve, encourage and replenish our lumber supply. Yet we can not maintain our present standards without a generous use of wood.

Under the cooperation of Federal and local governments a national policy of reforestation should be adopted without delay.

emblems over their embassies and legations. The diplomatic missions generally will be closed today, observing the official Washington's Birthday holiday.

Washington's spiritual ideals were commemorated in Episcopal churches throughout the United States yesterday as part of the Nation-wide "Washington Cathedral Sunday."

Masons Hold Services.

Services were held at the Church of the Epiphany at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, being conducted by the Rev. G. Freeland Peter, canon of Washington Cathedral. He was assisted by the Rev. George W. Atkinson, rector of St. James' Church, and the Rev. Z. B. Phillips, rector of the Church of the Epiphany. The sermon was preached by the Right Rev. Cameron J. Davis, bishop coadjutor of western New York.

Dr. Phillips spoke on "George Washington and Our American Inheritance" at the morning service at the Church of the Epiphany.

The 22 Masonic Clubs of Washington and the officers of the advisory board began their observance of the 199th anniversary of Washington's birth at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, when they placed a wreath at the Washington Monument.

Called Deeply Religious.

Last night they took part in memorial services at the Ninth Street Christian Church and heard the pastor, the Rev. B. H. Melton, characterize Washington as a faithful member of the church.

"Washington was deeply religious," Mr. Melton said. "He often said that political prosperity was dependent upon true religion. To him God was a person and not a mere force. In the defeat of Braddock, Washington insisted that the Providence of God protected him. Four bullet holes were shot through his coat and two horses were shot from under him. He said: 'God protected me, and a man must be worse than an infidel who does not recognize the goodness and providence of God.'"

The American Legion, Department of the District of Columbia, also placed a wreath yesterday at the Washington Monument as part of their program of observance.

Military Mass Today.

Today the organization will sponsor one of the chief observances of Washington's Birthday, when thousands gather for a military mass at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

A complement of Marines from Quantico will form the background for the impressive services, which open at 10:30 o'clock. The Right Rev. John M. McNamara, auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese will preside and the pastor, the Rev. Francis J. Hurney, wartime chaplain of the cruiser Charleston will be celebrant of the mass.

The Rev. Joseph Sullivan, S. M., another wartime chaplain, will be deacon. The Rev. Stanislaus A. Czyz, a wartime member of the Eleventh division will be subdeacon. Father Mathias, S. A., of the Friars of Atonement, and the Rev. John Keating Cartwright, of St. Patrick's Church, will assist Bishop McNamara. The Very Rev. Ignatius Smith, of the Dominican order will preach the sermon.

Luncheon to Be Served.

The mass will be sung by the Immaculate Conception choir, under direction of Prof. Harry Wheaton Howard, with Miss Florence Yocum, Miss Kathryn Bowers and Frederick Nolan as soloists. The services will be broadcast over station WOL.

The Marines will form a guard of honor for the mass, and will present the colors, including colors of every legion post in the District.

After the mass luncheon will be served to about 1,000 legionnaires in the church hall. The afternoon program will begin at 1:30 o'clock in the auditorium adjoining the church, and members of the legion will hear addresses by Senator James J. Davis, Representative Hamilton Fish and William Tyler Page clerk of the House.

Patriotic Orders Unite.

Four patriotic organizations will unite for a mass observance of the holiday at 10 o'clock at Memorial Continental Hall. The program will be presented under the auspices of the Sons of the Revolution, Daughters of the American Revolution, Sons of the American Revolution and Children of the American Revolution.

The United States Marine Band Orchestra will present a concert from 10 until 10:30 o'clock, when Dr. Thomas Edward Green, president of the Sons of the Revolution of the District of Columbia, will call the meeting to order. The Rev. Frederick W. Perkins, of the Universalist National Memorial Church, and Rabbi Abram Simon, of Washington Hebrew Congregation, will officiate as chaplains.

Beck to Speak in House.

After greetings from various organizations headed by Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, District Commissioner; Representative John J. McSwain, of South Carolina, will present a gold medal to Elizabeth Bryan, of the National Cathedral School, winner of an essay contest. Another medal will be presented to Mrs. Irene Blythe, by Miss Helen Harman, regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Augustus Owsley Stanley, former senator from Kentucky, will deliver the principal address.

Tribute to George Washington will be paid in the House of Representatives this morning at 11 o'clock. The House will convene an hour earlier than usual to hear an address by Representative James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania.

The Liberty Bell rang again yesterday, in observance of George Washington's birthday. Under auspices of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission and the city government of Philadelphia, a simple and dignified program was presented in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, around the Liberty Bell.

Sol Bloom Is Heard.

Speakers included Representative Sol Bloom, Mayor Harry Mackey of Philadelphia and Ambassador Don Carols G. Davila, of Chile.

The Filipino Club of Washington observed the anniversary last night at the Y. M. C. A.

David J. Lewis, representative-elect of Maryland, will address the Fairlan Parent-Teacher Association at St. Mark's Parish Hall at 8 o'clock tonight.

Representative Sol Bloom will speak at a meeting of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants to be held at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the Western Presbyterian Church.

Twenty-four contracts involving a total of $4,908,506 have been awarded by the Louisiana Highway Commission.

Historic Pohick in Fairfax County Made Scene of Birthday Services.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The George Washington memorial birthday services yesterday afternoon in the old historic Pohick Church in Fairfax County, on the Richmond-Washington highway, about 22 miles south of Washington, was attended by approximately 500 persons. The services were conducted by the Rev. C. A. Langston, rector of the church. The lessons were read by the Rev. Robert Allen Castleman, rector of the Falls Church, at Falls Church, and the sermon was delivered by the Rev. H. A. McFaden, D. D., pastor of the Winchester, Va., Presbyterian Church and retiring grand master of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Virginia, who spoke on "The Religion of Washington."

Mr. Langston stated that Truro Parish, of which Pohick Church is part, was founded the same year that Washington was born, and will also celebrate its 200th anniversary next year. Washington passed a portion of his youth in Truro Parish, and his father, Augustine Washington, was a vestryman of the original Pohick Church, which was located about 2 miles south of the present church. George Washington was for many years a vestryman of Pohick Church and made the plans for the present church structure.

The prayer services yesterday were read from the prayer book imported to Pohick Church from England at the request of Col. George Washington, and portions of the prayers for King George and members of the royal family of England were marked over and passages changed, in keeping with the sentiment of that time were inserted by the vestry of that time. The Bible used yesterday was loaned for the occasion to the church by the Fredericksburg, Va., Masonic Lodge, No. 4, and is the Bible upon which Washington took the Masonic oath. A committee from the Fredericksburg Lodge, composed of Worshipful Master W. S. Hitt, John C. Rice and C. W. Jones, brought the book from the lodge and returned with it last night.

The services were attended by the officers of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Virginia, representatives from the George Washington National Masonic Memorial Association, which opens its annual sessions in Alexandria today; Senator James Watson, of Indiana; Senator Henry Ashurst, of Arizona; Campbell Bascom Slemp, of Washington; Brig. Gen. R. C. Burkley, of Quantico, Va., and Representative-elect Judge Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria, and members of the Masonic lodges of northern Virginia and Washington.

A choir, with Fred East and D. O. Raymond, of Washington, furnished the musical portion of th program. Fairfax County road police, under the direction of Capt. Haywood Durrer, kept the highway open and supervised the parking of automobiles.

The Red Cross emergency case advisory committee held its first meeting in Fairfax, and Miss Sadie James, field director from national headquarters, explained the manner of making the county survey, filling out questionnaires in regard to each needy family reported, and keeping of records. Each case must be investigated by a subcommittee from the different branches before beinb passed on finally by the case advisory committee.

It was decided that for the time being the chairman, Mrs. J. Hunter Mack should have power to sign the emergency order slips. Several cases were passed on and orders for supplies furnished. The meeting adjourned until Tuesday morning at 9:30, at which time the list of authorized local merchants, on which requisitions will be issued, will be decided on and letters of instruction sent out.

The Epworth League, of the Anandale Methodist Church, will give a recreation program this evening in the Boy Scout Hall at Anandale, under the direction of Omer Hirst.

The Evening Circle, of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Columbia Baptist Church, wil hold its meeting this evening at the home of Miss Margaret Fravel, in Falls Church.

The Volunteer Fire Department at McLean will hold its regular meeting this evening in the Engine House. Chief J. H. Beattie has announced the plans for the annual McLean Firemen's carnival will be discussed and arrangements completed for a benefit wrestling match, which will be given at McLean on March 7.

The regular meeting of the Old Glory Council, Daughters of America, will be held this evening in the Lodge Hall at McLean. This will be followed by a George Washington memorial social, under the direction of Mrs. C. H. Furlong.

The Sharon Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, at McLean, will sponsor a card party in Masonic Hall for the benefit of the Fairfax Countyy Red Cross relief fund.

The Groveton Community League will present a special entertainment this evening in the Community Hall at Groveton, on the Washington-Richmond highway for the benefit of the club.

The Piedmont Chapter of the American War Mothers at Falls Church will hold a meeting this afternoon in the Crossman Methodist Church at Falls Church. President, Mrs. W. L. Turner, is also planning an entertainment at her home on Thursday. Mrs. E. T. Fenwick, state president, and Mrs. N. N. Nock, of Washington, the national Gold Star Mother's chairman, will go to Richmond next week as the guests of Mrs. W. P. Stewart, the former national corresponding secretary.

The Epworth League and Young People's Missionary Society, of the Southern Methodist Church at Andrew Chapel, will sponsor a program which will be presented this evening, in the autitorium of the Andrew Chapel School House. A play will be given by Mrs. John K. Berry, Miss Dorothy Pierpoint, Miss Elizabeth Berry, Mrs. Roy Money, Miss Stella Morris, Miss Marion Day, Miss Helen Stoy, Miss Emily Day, Mrs. Curtis Money, Miss Agnes Orrison and Miss Gladys Ives. Special feature numbers will be presented by Miss Isabel Buckingham, of Washington; Miss Annie Cornwell, of Forestville, Mrs. C. J. Ives, of Clarendon, and the Andrew Chapel trio, Alton and Roy Money an d Willard Oliver.

The Rev. E. D. Regester, D. D., of Alexandria, presiding elder of the Methodist churches of this district, will hold a quarterly meeting this afternoon at the Dranesville Methodist Church.

Man Hurt as Car Hits Pole.

Severe head injuries were received by Walter A. Doetch, 41 years old, of 5401 New Hampshire avenue, when his car crashed into a telephone pole near Hyattsville, Md., about 2 o'clock yesterday morning, police reported. Doetch was treated at Casualty Hospital.

6 FAMILIES ORDERED EVICTED IN DANVILLE

Occupants Held Ineligible for Reemployment; Commissary Reopened.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Feb. 22.—The management of the Riverside and Dan River cotton mills has served eviction notices on six additional families at Schoolfield, who are held to be ineligible for reemployment in the mills. Hearing on the notices will be held before Magistrate R. S. Fitts on February 25.

A large shipment of soup to the United Textile Workers has resulted in the reopening of the commissaries, and most of the soup has been distributed among those people who have not qualified for relief from the Red Cross.

Several union leaders are in the city, including Miss Matilda Lindsay, of Richmond, woman's organizer; Paul Aymond, organizer, and C. W. Bolick, organizer. C. S. Garrison, publicity agent for the union, has left the city, as has F. J. Gorman, vice president of the United Textile Workers.

Relief work is progressing swiftly in the mill area. The Community Welfare Association, which is meeting the needs in the city, has served notice that applicants for relief who have automobiles or own real estate will not be given aid.

According to Wayles R. Harrison, president of the Community Welfare Association the relief problem will be solved within 60 days.

DRYS CLAIM MAJORITY IN DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE

here as opening the way for his consideration.

Whatever Chairman Raskob intends to bring up at the committee meeting, aside from the paramount problem of wiping out the party's $500,000 debt, there is no question that his call has agitated Southern Democracy into a fever of speculation.

Policy Discussion Opposed.

In private notices already sent to Chairman Raskob by congressional leaders, it has been insisted the national committee is without authority to take up party policies.

This will be the strategy of the Southern Democrats if the prohibition and tariff issues are brought up at the committee meeting. They will move to lay aside any resolution dealing with policies until the Democratic national convention.

A warning against any attempt at the forthcoming meeting of the Democratic national committee to commit the party to a high tariff program was issued yesterday by Representative Hull.

Tariff Rumor Cited.

The Tennessee senator-elect and former chairman of the national committee said in a statement it had been persistently reported for some days, that a part of the program of the March 5 meeting "is as diplomatically, but as definitely as possible, to commit the Democratic party to high tariffs."

"The past eight years under American leadership," he added, "have witnessed the development of unprecedentedly high tariffs in most all countries and have culminated in more unemployment and idleness, more human distress and privation, more bankruptcies and more utter dislocation and maladjustment of production, credit and distribution throughout the nations of the world than was ever before known.

"Colossal failure and incapacity on the part of our dominant political and business leadership, either to avoid the chief injuries of the existing panic or to promulgate basic economic policies for its cure, must now be patent to every one.

Plan Is Assailed.

"In the face of this unspeakable situation, it would be shocking and amazing if the great historic Democratic party should complacently turn away from its manifest and imperative duty to place first on its program the task of grappling with and solving the huge and pressing economic problems confronting this and other countries."

Mr. Hull asserted "the Democratic and Republican parties must not be merged on economic policies, including high tariffs."

"Such a fatuous course," he added, "instead of securing the results claimed for it, would simply require the Democratic party to surrender and abandon its most cherished economic doctrines—those which have fundamentally differentiated it from the Republican party.

"There is only one way 'to take the tariff out of politics,' and that is to permit no political party in close partnership with the chief tariff beneficiaries to control and administer the affairs of government.

"Practically, to merge the two old parties on tariffs and general economics at the very time business prostration everywhere is calling for relief, would, in my humble judgment, constitute the supreme political blunder and tragedy of this generation."

PERU TAKES STEPS TO CHECK UPRISING

tomorrow. Among those under arrest are Gen. Pedro Pablo Martinez and Col. Cesar Zorilla Lujan. Although those found guilty could be sentenced to death according to the military code, all indications are that the men convicted will receive sentences of 20 years in the penitentiary.

Two Tribunals to Act.

It is learned reliably that two tribunals will be appointed. One, consisting of four high officers, will hear the cases and pronounce sentence, and their action will be confirmed or appealed by five other officers acting as supreme justices.

It is reliably stated southern garrisons were invited by Arequipa rebels to join them but refused. Puno Juliaca troops, after reiterating their adhesion to Sanchez Cerro, marched on to Cuzco, joining there with the Loyalists who also had refused to join the revolt.

The troops of Cuzco and Puno Juliaca then invited those of the Arequipa garrison to abandon the rebellion and "adhere patriotically to the government's calls."

The government today also denied reports that northern troops had revolted.

Paper Hopes for Peace.

El Commercio, in an editorial on the events at Arequipa, said:

"It is hoped that when Arequipa learns that the situation in Lima is normal and that the Callao mutiny failed owing to the support of civilians who were unanimously opposed to it, the authors of the Arequipa revolt will not insist on trying to harm the nation's interests by reestablishing the regime overthrown six months ago."

Santiago, Chile, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—A dispatch from Arica to the newspaper Mercurios today partly confirmed reports from Arequipa that revolutionists are in complete control of southern Peru. Strict censorship is in force along the boarder. Tacna and other border regions were quiet today.

BRIGHT-LEAF SALES IN PETERSBURG GAIN

Figures Issued by Tobacco Board of Trade Rank City as Fifth.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Feb. 22.—Producers' sale of bright tobacco for January on the Petersburg market totaled 840,290 pounds, according to figures released by the Tobacco Board of Trade and the Petersburg Chamber of Commerce. The average price obtained for the tobacco was $6.21. Resales for the month were 37,070 pounds. January sales and those of February to date bring the total sales of tobacco for the season to 4,720,228 pounds, with an average price of $9.50. This last total and average price include resales of tobacco also. The market closes February 27 and with but five more days in which to sell it probably will not reach 5,000,000 pounds.

January producers' sales represent an increase of 295,058 pounds over the same period in 1930 and place Petersburg in fifth place in total volume of sales in the State. The total producers' sales for the season at the end of January were 4,080,404 pounds.

Total sales for the past week on the floors of the local warehouses totaled 100,748 pounds. Quality showed a sharp decline as the supply of growers in this section is just about exhausted. There is some tobacco of good grade left in the counties, but most of it has been marketed and only the poorer grades are left.

In total sales Petersburg is exceeded by Danville with 8 warehouses having total sales of 37,245,999 pounds; South Boston, 6 warehouses, 16,782,824 pounds; South Hill, 4 warehouses, 6,841,139 pounds, and Martinsville, 2 warehouses, 4,142,636 pounds.

Other markets reported are Chase City, 3,415,252; Kenbridge, 3,344,286; Lawrenceville, 1,871,292. January report from one warehouse not included: Brookneal, 1,568,265; Clarksville, 1,529,897, and Rocky Mount, 1,423,800.

The general average price for the State was $6.37 during January, as compared to $16.46, the average a year ago. In this respect Petersburg also made a favorable showing compared with other markets.

Market average prices 1931-1930: Danville, $7.34—$16.96; South Boston, $6.62—$16.81; Martinsville, $6.68—$11.40; Petersburg, $6.21—$17.84; South Hill, $5.16—$17.45; Lawrenceville, $4.95—$12.52; Clarksville, $4.51—$15.72; Kenbridge, $4.42—$15.41; Chase City, $3.81—$15.48; Brookneal, $2.89—$12.70; Rocky Mount, $2.57—$7.52.

It may readily be seen from the above tabulation that last year Petersburg led the market in price paid per 100 pounds for flue-cured (U. S. type 11) tobacco.

Mother of Girl, 13, Seeks Annulment

Hagerstown Woman Claims Daughter Wed Boy, 17, Outside of Law.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 22.—A suit asking for the annulment of the marriage of Janice Gerling Gorman, 13, was filed in court here Saturday by her mother, Mrs. Inez V. Gerling, against James Gorman, 17. The couple eloped January 30 and married February 4 in Prince Georges County, Md. When the mother learned that her daughter had eloped, she used the radio to broadcast a description of the couple and they were detained when they reached Jacksonville, Fla., and later returned.

The bill of complaint charges that the couple, accompanied by Xavier Halligan, left Hagerstown for an automobile ride, and while on the ride decided to be married, and that they entered into the marriage, not realizing its seriousness. The bill also sets forth that the marriage license was obtained through giving false ages.

POLICE HUNT MOTIVE IN WOMAN'S SLAYING

Discard Theory of Robbery in Murder of Recluse, 48, in Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Police tonight said a day's investigation into the murder of Miss Anna Herrara, 48-year-old recluse, had failed to disclose a motive. No arrests had been made and the coroner purposed to conduct an autopsy tomorrow.

Robbery, first considered after the body was found last night in a pool of blood in the woman's apartment in the Negro section of the city, was discarded early today by the officers. The authorities, however, were convinced the murderer was admitted by Miss Herrara, as neither the door or window had been forced.

Miss Herrara's head had been crushed and the appearance of the room gave testimony of a terrific struggle. The apartment was in the basement of the property owned by the woman and the upper floors were rented to Negro roomers. She had occupied the property for a quarter of a century.

The coroner who gave the verdict of murder said the woman had ben slain Friday afternoon or Saturday. An undelivered grocery order on the doorstep and the nonappearance of the woman led neighbors to report to the police and the discovery of the body followed.

Police said Miss Herrara, formerly a milliner, at one time had been a heavy holder of real estate. More than a year ago, however, she lost more than $30,000 in investments and mortgages had been placed on some of her holdings.

Capt. Chales Lastner, of the police department, in charge of the investigation, said he had not yet conferred with Coroner Ferdinand Link, who last night reported the woman had been criminally attacked.

APPROACH TO BRIDGE GOAL OF ARLINGTON

Plans Made to Have County Take Over Avenue to Memorial Span.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 569. Clarendon, Va.

With a 60-foot right of way now available for the Military road and an offer from the owner of that property beyond the Military road to the new Arlington Memorial Bridge, efforts will be made to have the county board of supervisors take over Washington avenue from the intersection of Wilson boulevard and the Courthouse road as Arlington County's approach to the new bridge.

Representatives from the Fort Myer Heights Citizens Association, which for the last year has been at work on the project, will meet with the county board of supervisors at the courthouse this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

It is pointed out that there is little possibility of Congress passing the bill now before it providing for the building by the Federal Government of that section of the road from the bridge and connecting with the Lee boulevard at the western portion of Fort Myer military reservation.

Should the Government not do so, it is said that Arlington County will be for some time without an adequate approach to the bridge.

The Washington avenue project is claimed by the sponsors of the movement to be almost a direct route to Falls Church by way of Wilson boulevard after leaving the intersection at Courthouse road by way of Memorial drive over Garrison road, thence to the Lee Highway and on to Fairfax.

One of the most outstanding features of this project, as stated yesterday by one of the leaders of the project, is that the county will have no rights of way to purchase, but need only adopt the road and then proceed to build it.

George W. Harris, of Washington, is announced as the principal speaker at the first annual banquet of the Men's Club of the First Presbyterian Church of Ballston at the church Wednesday night at 7 o'clock. The program will include a number of vocal selections by Mrs. Myron Witters, of Arlington County.

James L. Alford, 51, died suddenly at his home on Waverly street, Clarendon, yesterday morning. Besides his wife, he leaves three daughters, Ruth, Dorothy and Gladys, and one son, Edward. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

The special committee of the Alexandria-Arlington-Fairfax Real Estate Board, composed of Henry C. Morris, chairman; Keith A. Brumback and Mrs. Ruby Lee Minar, of Arlington County; Gardner L. Booth, 2d, and George Reynolds, of Alexandria, and Guy N. Church, of Fairfax County, will meet tomorrow at noon at Windsor Arms to plan a clean-up campaign for the northern Virginia area incident to the bicentennial next year. The committee will also consider ways and means of gaining the interest of all civic organizations in the three sections.

The Robert E. Lee Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, of Falls Church, will hold its monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. T. Payne. The meeting will be held at 2 o'clock.

The Clarendon Circle of St. George's Episcopal Church will hold its February luncheon meeting Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Varnum Smith, 264 South Hamilton avenue.

The ways and means committee of Arlington Chapter, No. 39, Order of the Eastern Star, will give a benefit Martha Washington luncheon and card party tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Nelson Parker, 146 Melwood avenue, Cherrydale. Luncheon will be served at noon.

The Thrifton Village Improvement League meets tonight in the Parish Hall of Grace Episcopal Church. Plans for a clean-up campaign and community improvement will be the principal topic.

With an assemblage that taxed the capacity of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Rector's home on Strickler avenue, Clarendon, the 199th anniversary of the birth of George Washington was commemorated by the Thomas Nelson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Saturday night.

The "Colonial Party" opened with a reception to the members and their friends by the chapter's officers and the hostesses of the occasion, Mrs. Rector and Mrs. Alma B. Dodd, the former presiding in colonial costume.

A welcome was extended to the regent, Mrs. May Thompson Webb, who then presented Mrs. Bessie Irene Beattie as chairman. The spirit of the anniversary was expressed in a group of vocal numbers, "Mount Vernon Bells" and "Hymn of Thanksgiving," rendered by a male quartet composed of Paul Toller, George Smith, H. A. Hutson and Luther C. Dodd, Mrs. Audit T. Davis, accompanying. This was followed by a duet dance by Miss Nettie Henderson and Miss Lois Bennett, in colonial costume, accompanied at the piano by Miss Helen Corbett.

Miss Bennett was heard also in a reading of a colonial story and Miss Hildegard Thompson sang "The North Wind," accompanied by Miss Betty Sanford. These latter five young women are all students at Arlington Hall Junior College, Arlington County.

The guest speaker was the Rev. John H. Pearson, pastor of the Clarendon Methodist Church. Mr. Pearson paid a glowing tribute to many of Washington's noble characteristics and vigorously denounced the tendency of some present-day writers to belittle the good deeds and besmirch the characters of certain American heroes.

Among the guests were Mrs. Thomas Smythe Wallis, regent of the Francis Wallis Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, of Cherrydale, who responded with friendly greetings from her chapter.

The meeting concluded with the serving of refreshments.

A full attendance of all members of the Lyon Park Citizens Association has been urged for the meeting in the community house tomorrow night. The budget prepared by the board of governors at a meeting Friday night will be submitted for the association's approval. It must also be approved by the Woman's Club. Both organizations constitute the Lyon Park Community Center.

The budget, it is learned, includes an item of $200 for the maintenance of the park which was deeded to the lot owners within Lyon Park last summer by the firm of Lyon & Fitch on the condition that the lot owners would maintain the park.

Mrs. Joseph Henderson has been elected president of the Ladies' Aid Society of Calvary Methodist Protestant Church in Aurora Hills. Other officers are Mrs. John C. Gall, first vice president; Mrs. J. P. LaCroix, second vice president; Mrs. Ernest Painter, secretary, and Mrs. E. A. Richardson, treasurer.

The Jefferson District Fire Department announces that a dance will be given in the auditorium of the firemen's hall Wednesday night.

The Woman's Club of Ashton Heights will hold its monthly social meeting in the clubhouse tomorrow evening. A musical program has been arranged by Mrs. Leonard Jones, chairman of the music department of the club.

DePriest Warns Of Reds' Menace

Representatve Plans Bill to Make Lynching Federal Crime.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Feb. 22.—Representative Oscar DePriest, of Chicago, addressed a mixed audience of about 400 at the Maryland Theater this afternoon. He warned members of his race against communistic propaganda, saying that Communists were endeavoring to make the Negroes dissatisfied citizens in trying to have them believe they are the worst treated class in America. He also said he intended to introduce a bill in the next Congress to make lynching a Federal crime.

Mayor Thomas W. Koon, native of South Carolina, who presided, complimented Representative DePriest, declaring his address was "that of a statesman." Former State Senator David A. Robb introduced the speaker. The meeting was under the joint auspices of the McKendree Methodist Episcopal and Metropolitan African Methodist Episcopal churches.

PATRIOTS TO PLACE WREATH UPON TOMB

Alexandria Exercises Will Honor Unknown Soldier of Revolution.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Mrs. Josiah A. Van Orsdel, registrar general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will place the wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier of the Revolution, in the churchyard of the old First Presbyterian Church, at the services to be held today at 2:30 by the Children of the American Revolution. She will be accompanied by a number of the national officers of both the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Children of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Van Orsdel was the president general of the Children of the American Revolution when the tomb was unveiled in 1928, the tomb being placed over this heretofore neglected grave by the C. A. R. The dedication was by the late James W. Good, then Secretary of War.

Anne McCarthy Ramsay Chapter, C. A. R., of this city, will furnish the color guard from its membership, and Richard Blackburn Washington, jr., the grandson of the late Lawrence Washington, the last male member of the Washington family born at Mount Vernon while it was still in the possession of the family, and Llewellyn Powell, jr., have been selected for this service.

Approximately fifteen members of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, will leave at 8 o'clock for Leesburg, Va., to attend the eighth district meeting called by the committeeman, C. E. Reams, jr. The commander of the Department of Virginia, Roby Thompson, and the adjutant, Glenn Elliott, will be in attendance.

Col. Clarence Deems, jr., U. S. A. retired, professor of military science and tactics in the Alexandria High School, has received the blanks from the headquarters of the Third Corps Area for the Citizens' Military Training Camps, to be held July 2 to 31, and is prepared to confer with candidates for this camp. The city furnishes its quota mainly from the high school cadet corps, but all have an equal right to apply, provided they are in proper physical condition and meet other requirements. The minimum age at the time of entering camp is 17 years.

Mrs. Wirton Matthews Is Dead at Britton Hall

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., Feb. 22.—Mrs. Wirton Matthews died Sunday at Britton Hall, where she had made her home for the past five years. Mrs. Matthews was formerly Miss May Gulick, of a prominent Northern family and her father was a well-known railway official. A great number of years she made Washington her home, later coming to Warrenton and purchasing Creedmore, which she sold to the late E. Nelson Fell, and now owned by Burrows McNeir. Funeral services will be from Britton Hall Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

400 Chickens Die in Fire.

Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 22 (Special). Approximately 400 chickens were destroyed when a coop on the farm of E. R. Clever, Leitersburg, Md., burned early today. Defective wiring is believed to have caused the blaze.

MISSING GIRL BACK FROM PHILADELPHIA

Mary Lee Hicks Explains Leaving Winchester Last November.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Feb. 22.—Found in Philadelphia several days ago, after relatives and detectives had searched in a dozen or more Eastern States, Miss Mary Lee Hicks, attractive Handley High School girl, who disappeared from the home of a sister here last November, returned last night, accompanied by her grandfather, E. M. Hicks, of Frederick County. It was learned that she was located in Philadelphia by detectives after a long search of the city. They had a description of the girl, and it was largely through that information that she was found, but by chance.

When Miss Hicks, popular in her school and classes, disappeared relatives said it was as if she had vanished, as no trace of her whereabouts could be followed. The family, one of the most substantial here, put detectives on the case, but after a month or two they were called off. Some weeks ago her grandfather received a letter from her, postmarked in Philadelphia, saying she had gone there with a man and wife and children, with whom she had formed an acquaintance, and that as they were planning a trip to Europe she was going along as governess. However, she did not go, but says she remained in Philadelphia, where she had some employment.

Relatives declined to say whether she had any particular motive in leaving here. Her mother is dead and her father married again, and she was living with a sister when she went away.

would vote solidly for the Democratic candidate.

"In 1928," it said, "the same men who are today saying that the Democratic party must be wet were hooting at the very idea that Gov. Smith would loose Southern States because of his attack on prohibition.

"What happened in 1928 will almost certainly happen in 1932 if national Democratic leadership once again plays with the bus saw of Southern and Western resentment."

Taxi Driver Is Robbed Of Machine and $15

Theft of a taxicab and $15 was reported to police yesterday by Amor McKahann, of 1345 Columbia road northwest.

He told police that a man entered his cab at Fourteenth and U streets northwest and, after driving about town for an hour, told him to go to Alexandria. On the way to Alexandria, the passenger pressed a revolver to the head of the driver, rifled his pockets and ordered him to leave the machine, McKahann told police.

Barber Shop Looted of $20.

Burglars early yesterday morning broke into the barber shop of the Carlton Hotel and looted the cash register of $20, police reported. Entrance was gained by sawing through iron bars and removing the panel from a rear door.

Two New Cars Being Shipped To Envoy Edge

U. S. Ambasador in Paris Will Ride in Style on Boulevards.

PURSUING the diplomacy for which he is famous and offering another graceful gesture to extend "hands across the sea" the Ambassador to France, Mr. Walter Evans Edge, soon will be riding down the Champs Elysee in a car designed according to his orders—"all done up" in French blue, that shade associated with color connoisseurs of the Rue de la Paix. Two brand new models, low, sweeping and sumptuous enough for kings, slid into the White House Grounds Saturday for inspection by President Hoover and will be shipped within a few days to become "properties" of the Paris Embassy.

Since the cars represent the personal possession of Ambassador Edge (who foots the bill) he exercised fancy free in their design and color; adding, however, the United States seal as further embellishment.

In the choice of French blue for the "dress" of the two cars the ambassador further displayed his well-known penchant for matching colors—recall the former New Jersey senator's harmonious ties and handkerchiefs at Senate sessions! Furthermore, the clever diplomat doubtless selected the shade as a sort of panacea for the disgruntlement expressed recently by French journals over the prevalence of American cars in Paris. Only last summer the Ambassador of France, M. Paul Claudel, visiting abroad, was the target of criticism prompted by his apparent disregard of French motor car manufacturers and substitution of cars "made in America."

State Department officials admit, however, the dearth of luxury cars as anjuncts to embassies abroad. Two mail trucks, one in London and one in Paris, represent the lone contingent of foreign service cars. The others, scattered throughout the length and breadth of the world, are personal playthings of envoys, who generally prefer American cars. Few, however, boast the United States seal on their polished doors, although the idea of flaunting "officialdom" on avenues abroad was instituted by the late Alexander P. Moore, when he served as Ambassador to Spain.

Dr. Ellison and Party On Trip in Virginia.

Dr. Everett M. Ellison, international president of the Loyal Knights of the Round Table, is spending three days in Virginia on official visits to the tables at Roanoke and Norfolk. He is accompanied by Mr. Linn C. Drake, Mr. W. R. Frank Hines, Mr. John H. Seavers and Mr. George T. Warren, of Washington Round Table.

Dr. and Mrs. Alfred W. White and two small daughters, Marion and Janet, of Brooklyn, N. Y., are guests at the Powhatan.

Mr. and Mrs. Algernon S. Gardiner, of 3719 Livingston street, Chevy Chase, have motored to Pinehurst for an extended stay.

Republican Women Will Give Dinner.

The League of Republican Women will give a dinner tonight at Stoneleigh Court, when the speakers will be members of the Bicentennial Association.

A card party and dance will be given by the Joseph H. Milans Chapter this evening at 2400 Sixteenth street.

Guests of honor will be Mrs. Amy Hollander, Mr. Theodore C. Lewis, Miss Edith Williams, Mr. Paul B. Cromelin, Mrs. Elizabeth Plitt, Mrs. Mamie Greenstreet, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Milans and Mr. George H. Plitt.

As a feature a group of dances will be given by the pupils of Julia Cunningham and Thelma L. Pierce.

Among those who will entertain today at the luncheon to be given by the National Woman's Country Club, at 1 o'clock at its clubhouse on Bradley boulevard, are Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, president of the club; Mrs. Harry Pickney Huse, wife of Rear Admiral Huse; Mrs. Shumate and Mrs. Tribble. More than 70 reservations have been made for the luncheon by members, many of whom will entertain guests.

An event of importance will follow the luncheon, when a talk on the "Philosophy of Life," will be given by Mr. N. Coridon Hanks, blind author, lecturer and philosopher.

Economics Class Vies For Meat Story Prizes

Girls in the home economics class of Mrs. Norma Bacchus, of the Francis Junior High School, have entered competition for university scholarships and cash awards offered in the eighth annual national meat story contest, involving the technique of roasting and broiling and stewing and serving. Mrs. Bacchus has requested twelve entry blanks from the National Live Stock and Meat Board of Chicago, sponsor for the event. The contest will close March 15.

It is conducted annually in high schools throughout the country, approximately 15,000 girls participating. Selection of winners will be in the hands of a committee of home economics authorities selected from the United States Bureau of Home Economics, and from various colleges. Each State and the District of Columbia will share in the prize awards.

$10 Luncheon Of Hadassah Palestine Aid

Will Be Held Tomorrow in Mayflower Hotel; Play Arranged.

The Washington Chapter Hadassah will hold its first donors' give or get $10 luncheon at the Mayflower tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock. This inaugurates in Washington the noval plan sponsored by the national organization as a means of raising funds for the medical work Hadassah maintains in Palestine.

Recent successful donors' luncheons were Detroit's $25 one, Chicgo's so-called "golden plate," at $50, and Baltimore's $25 one, held three weeks ago. Last year there was one $1,000 one which the late Mrs. Lena Straus, widow of Nathan Straus, attended. New York is planning a $100 one in the near future, at which Mme. Albert Einstein will be guest of honor.

Members of the Washington Chapter have been most enthusiastic in their efforts to raise the required amount, baking cookies, pies, selling groceries, silk stockings, giving lessons in contract bridge, sewing aprons, acting as chauffeurs, running rummage sales, and the like, thus carrying out the give or get idea.

Mrs. Louis Rosenthal and Mrs. William I. Ogus are cochairmen of the affair, and Mrs. Hyman D. Shapiro is in charge of tickets.

The opening prayer will be given by Mrs. Isidore Kahn, and the principal speaker will be Mrs. Irma Lindheim, of the executive board of National Hadassah. Mrs. Dave Alpher, president of the local chapter, will speak briefly, after which Miss Dorothy Abrams will offer dramatic recitations and Miss Ella Mintz will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Clara Bernheimer. A playlet will also be given with the following cast: Mrs. I. E. Levinson, Mrs. Isidore Peake, Mrs. Oscar Dodek, Mrs. Edward Ostrow, Mrs. Norman Kal, Mrs. Bessie Weinberg, Mrs. Elias Gelman, Mrs. Eli Weinstein, Mrs. Bernard Buckhantz, Mrs. Abe Shefferman and Mrs. David Kushner.

Hadassah is an American organization of Jewish women who have established and maintain Palestine four hospitals, five dispensaries, 21 infant welfare stations, prenatal and postnatal clinics, an X-ray institute, medical service in 50 rural districts, medical inspection of 24,000 school children, campaigns against tuberculosis, smallpox, malaria, trachoma and typhoid.

Junior Hadassah maintains a rural orphan colony and a nurses' training school. All medical services are open to Jew, Christian and Moslem alike.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig S. Atkins entertained a party at the supper dance at the Shoreham Hotel on Saturday evening when their guests included Mr. and Mrs. George Rex Carter, Miss Elizabeth Michael and Mr. Francis Brotherhood, of East Aurora, N. Y.

A "thimble party" will be given tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock by Mrs. Enos Newman at her home on Tilden street for the Nursery Guild of the Garfield Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Newman invites all members of the Ladies' Aid to attend, and for tea at 4 o'clock. She will be assisted by the officers of the guild and a group from the Junior Aid, with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Hobart Newman.

Miss Hazel Crowe, of the Beacon Inn, will be hostess at a shower and reception tonight for Mrs. J. Russell Wallace, formerly Miss Rada White. The guests will be members of Mrs. Wallace's alumnae class of Emergency Hospital.

Miss Gordon To Be Wed to Mr. Edwards

Event Will Take Place at Virginia Country Home in June.

A marriage of interest to Washington will be that of Miss Sarah Stanley Gordon, daughter of the late Mr. Douglas H. Gordon and Mrs. J. Wilmer Biddle, of Philadelphia, to Mr. Archibald Cason Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Edwards, of Oklahoma City, which will take place early in June at Kenmore Manor, the country home of Mrs. Biddle, in Rappahannock County, Va., and will be followed by a large reception there.

Mrs. Biddle and her daughters are frequent visitors in Washington and are as well knewn to society here as they are in Philadelphia.

Miss Elisabeth Gordon will be her sister's maid of honor, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Keppel-Palmer, of England, the brother-in-law and sister of Miss Gordon, will come to this country to attend the wedding.

Kerlin—Monk Nuptials Performed in Capital.

St. Paul's Episcopal Church was the scene Saturday afternoon of the wedding of Miss Virginia Pendleton Monk, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Oliver Monk, and Mr. Huston Zirkle Kerlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Kerlin, of Mount Jackson, Va.

The bride wore a gown of blue lace with a small straw hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley.

Her only attendant was Miss Laura Schuyler who wore a frock of beige lace with a hat of a deeper tone. She carried Ophelia roses.

The best man was Mr. Robert Emmett Fennelly.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Kerlin left for a motor trip through the South. For traveling the bride wore a brown printed frock with a brown hat and coat.

They will be at home after March 1 at 1106 Allison street.

Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle will be hostess at a tea given by the international relations committee of the Voteless District of Columbia League of Women Voters at her home tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Miss Shio Sakanishi will be an honor guest. Mrs. A. L. McKelway and Mrs. Ben McKelway will preside at the tea tables. Mrs. William Johnstone will assist in receiving.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop Hill entertained at the supper-dance at the Club Chantecler on Saturday evening for Mr. and Mrs. William North Sturtevant.

Other hosts at Chantecler on Saturday evening included Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kenny, Lieut. C. L. Waters, Mr. Herbert Gatley, Mr. C. L. Tompkins and Mr. and Mrs. Hardie Meakin.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Roe, of Princeton, N. J., are passing some time at the Powhatan. Mr. and Mrs. Roe were hosts to a party of six at the Belasco on Saturday night.

Miss Elizabeth Peet, of Kendall Green, has just returned from a week in Detroit, where she went to attend the meeting of the National Association of Deans of Women.

Makes Your Old Mattress Into a Knew-Rest

For as little as $9, we can make a Knew-Rest Cushion Spring mattress out of your old one. Only the inside of your old mattress is used. That is made germ-free and clean and used as a cushion between the coil springs.

It makes a sleep-producing mattress that will give you ten years of perfect comfort.

Beds and bedding are sold direct to you at factory prices. Box springs and pillows renovated or made to order at factory prices.

Who Drew That?

Somebody's scrawled a line up there just where we were going to write an ad about A&P. Come on now, who did it?

Oh...that's different. You say the line shows how fast the retail price of food has been going down? So it does. And it's taken quite a slide, hasn't it? Down to about 15% lower than it was in September, 1929, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Better not erase it then; because A&P had more to do with the drawing of that line than anybody else in the United States. For, as growers and producers have reduced their prices, A&P has reduced the price of food in its stores.

We'll just write the ad way down here in a little bit of space. A&P is the strongest influence in the country for keeping the price of food to the consumer low.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

FOLLOWING the revoking of the license of Station KFKB, owned by Dr. John R. Brinkley, of Milford, Kans., charged with broadcasting objectionable medical matter, the Federal Radio Commission, instead of giving the frequency to some State under quota, Saturday handed it back to Kansas, which is over its radio quota.

Thus the commission, which acted against the advice of its legal department, yielding, it is said, to political pressure from the Kansas delegation and Vice President Curtis, set a precedent by partially nullifying general order 102, which provides that when a radio zone has its quota the commission shall not further allocate any radio facilities to it.

Furthermore, the commission played into the hands of the doctor, who was supposed to be so severely punished, by allowing him to sell his apparatus for $95,000 to the Farmers & Bankers' Life Insurance Co., in Milford, Kans., to which they gave the frequency. The contention is that the transmitter wasn't worth anywhere near that amount, but what the commission really did was to allow the doctor to sell his frequency for that fancy figure after it had been taken away from him.

The application for permission to sell the station was only filed a few days ago, and was granted without any hearing, thus violating another precedent usually followed in such cases.

Andy's breach of promise suit begins tomorrow night. Oh me! Oh my!

ENGINEERS at station WBAL are busy installing the WJZ-WBAL synchronization equipment and it is expected that within a few days the work of testing will have been completed. WBAL will then begin operating on a full time schedule that will keep this station on the air every day from 7:30 a. m. to midnight.

Frederick R. Huber, director of station WBAL, sends word to Washington listeners that WBAL will operate on its own wave of 1,060 kilocycles every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 7:30 a. m. to 4 p. m., at which time this station will sign off from its own wave and begin operating on WJZ's 760 kilocycle frequency, found on the dial between WJR, Detroit, and WGY, Schenectady.

WBAL will remain synchronized on WJZ's wave until 4 p. m. the following day, when it will return to its own wave of 1,060 k. c. On Sundays, WBAL will broadcast on 1,060 k. c. from 8 a. m. to 7:45 p. m., when it will be synchronized with WJZ broadcasting on that station's 760 k. c. wave until midnight.

Listeners to WBAL should remember that it will not be necessary for them to memorize this schedule. All they need do is to bear in mind, if the plan proves successful, that WBAL will soon be on the air every day, all day and that they can always be sure of getting this station either at its place on the dial or where WJZ comes in.

AS a means of helping the Lambs Club out of its financial difficulties, one of the chains is reported to be dickering with that famous theatrical organization with the object of arranging an all-star Lambs Gambol for the radio.

This plan is also said to include the Friars Frolic. These features are sought for Sunday evening programs.

Station WGY has a sound library. When the director of a radio drama needs the sound of surf, a revolver shot, a machine gun or the roar of a train he goes to the sound library for a lifelike film that gives the desired realism to the program.

All kinds of noises are kept on file.

A group of 550 children—the National High School Chorus, will be heard from the Masonic Temple, Detroit, this afternoon (WRC, 6 o'clock).

WHEN any one thinks of station WOR, Newark, which celebrates its ninth birthday today, he invariably thinks of its director, Alfred J. "Hollywood" McCosker. Where he acquired the nickname of "Hollywood" is not known, but someway it fits the debonair broadcaster perfectly.

"Hollywood" keeps WOR in the front ranks. It is admittedly one of the best stations in the country and to McCosker, apparently, goes the credit.

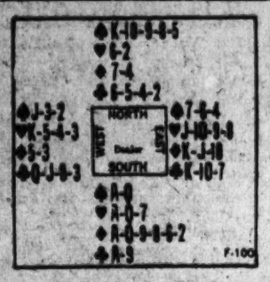
WORK ON BRIDGE



WITH the above hand at Auction Bridge, South would bid one No Trump, West would pass and North would either bid two Spades or pass. With a holding such as North's, a pass is better because two of a major shows more strength in the suit than North has, and tells the partner that it will be safe to rebid the No Trump if the major does not suit his hand. If North passed, East would pass and South would become a one No Trump Declarer; if North bid two Spades, South facing a declaration which promised Spade strength and invited a No Trump rebid, doubtless would be influenced by his hundred Aces and bid two No Trumps which would end the Auction. So North's take-out would be harmless, although a poor bid.

In the Contract Bridge game at which the hand was played, South called three No Trumps.

In the play West opened his four-card Club suit headed by Queen-Jack in preference to leading a four-card Heart suit headed by the King, and East's King was taken by South's Ace. There was no point in holding up until the second round because, West having just four Clubs, East must have three and could not be exhausted.

To tricks 2 and 3 South led the Ace and a small Diamond, the latter being won by East who returned his partner's Club and West took three Club tricks. Eventually East made his Diamond King and so Declarer fell one trick short of game.

The Correct Play.

Declarer should have seen that he must lose three Clubs and could only afford to lose one Diamond. Therefore his best play was to lead the Queen of Spades at trick 2, overtake it with dummy's King, and lead a Diamond from dummy for the Queen finesse. When that won, lead out the Ace and another Diamond and let the adversaries take in one Diamond and three Clubs. On the last two Clubs South would discard two Hearts and Declarer then would have a showdown for the remaining tricks.

Another plan would be to lead a small Diamond to trick 2, allowing the adversaries to take one Diamond and three Clubs at once; and then, using dummy's King of Spades for an entry, to take the Diamond finesse.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"PISCES."

IF February 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Astrological influences on February 23 will account for the inexplicable variation in the mental tone of most people, and the gloomy moods which will tend to destroy any possibility of a marked success or happiness. Not a favorable day for dealing with correspondence. From a family point of view there will be disturbing factors of both a moral and material sense.

The child born on this February 23 will be proud and touchy; jealous of its own right and privileges, and very tenacious in maintaining them. It will have a practical, unimaginative character, and will want to know the how of things, not the why.

You stand on the other end of the human scale from the thinker, the poet or the dreamer. You belong to the type of men or women who rule the world, or to carry out the plans of others. You are not a charming person, you are too serious to have the fluid quality of charm, but you can be very pleasant and agreeable. Your manners are good; your feeling of courtesy is strong. Your strongest quality is fortitude. You stick to your ship while there is a plank left afloat. This quality implies sincerity and courage, and honesty of purpose. To take a fighting initiative is an instinct with you. You are not a fox, but a hunter.

Your tendency is to estimate men by what they are, rather than by what they think, and you are ambitious to be popular amongst at least the so-called smart set in your community. Psychologically, you are not a good character analyst, and you are destined to be let down by more than one of those whom you honor with the name of friend. Yours is a one-track mind, and you will be utterly at loose ends if you have to give up your one absorbing interest, be it that of a mother and homemaker, or a man, with a business or career. Beneath the gripping materialism of your nature there runs a warm current of affection for children—you love them and they love you.

Successful people born February 23:
Mrs. Emma Willard, educator.
Stephen A. Douglas Volk, artist.
Ernest Percy Bicknell, deputy commander, American Red Cross.
Arthur Astor Carey, social worker.
Samuel Pepys, diarist.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Courting Disaster.

DEAR Frances McDonald: You are so fair to all please be perfectly frank if I am doing anybody any wrong. I am working my way through school. Am 22 and have a room with a young married couple in exchange for household duties. They are not happy and are mismated. She loves to go and he is the home type. Every night she is off somewhere for a good time. He is never home till nearly 9 for his dinner, which I prepare. When he gets in he is always about dead. But as soon as he has had his dinner he wants to talk and comes into the kitchen and sits while I clear up. We at first just laughed and talked, but lately he makes love to me and is very depressed if I will not let him.

Please do not get the idea that he is fresh or anything. He is in deadly earnest and keeps asking me who would be harmed by our being kind to each other. When he puts it that way what can I answer? For my part there is no one on earth who gives a straw what I do or if I am alive or dead. I have had to fight my way alone and if it were not for the few words he gives me I might as well be a deaf mute, for I have no friends here—nor anywhere for that matter. On his side his wife comes in about midnight and gets up after he has gone. She is always telling me to stay single, as marriage is "everything you don't expect and nothing that you do expect." They do not fight, for they are never in the house even at the same time. He does not talk against her; just says they made a big mistake. Now, in these circumstances, and provided we did no more than kiss when he comes in, do you consider we would be doing any one a wrong? MINA.

"Provided you did no more than kiss when he comes in." Mina, dear child, what sort of superhuman could "just kiss"—and comfort and companion and make love to each other and do all this every night after night and not be utterly miserable? Who would be hurt? You for one. Morally hurt. Hurt if you thwarted nature. Hurt if you did not. Leave the question of morality out entirely if you will and you would still be hurt and be hurting. I am not thinking of the wife. Her place is at home when the man comes in hes dead with earning their living. She has appointed you her substitute, so that eliminates her as a consideration. The one I am considering is YOU. To you at present this man and his kiss mean the whole world and life thrown in. Well, the world holds something more for you than a stolen kiss in another woman's kitchen. Stand up to life, dear. Don't let the enticement of a man's lips get between you and what life can offer you. Don't let loneliness make you give up a good fight for a sneaking surrender. Don't let kisses stop you on your way to where you are going. You were going somewhere when you met this man, were you not? Or have you even forgotten where you were headed for?

You started out to get somewhere in this world, didn't you? It wasn't by any chance your aim in life to collect crumbs from other women's plates, was it? No. You were working to make a place for yourself and have your share of life's bounty. Keep on your way. Walk out on this man. Get another home. And when you have one of your own some day you will be glad that you did not accept crumbs as your share of life and love.

Woman Dentist Is 92.

Pomeroy, Ohio, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Dr. Amy L. Whaley, 92, is believed the oldest active woman dentist in the world. She has practiced for more than 60 years, and still has such a practice that she employs assistants. Her original set of instruments is displayed in her office as curios.

AnC INTERPRETS the MODE

Black and white plaid effect in crepe de chine, and a novel black and white lingerie touch for trimming. (Courtesy of Agnes, Drecoll Beer, Paris.)

Paris, Feb. 22.

HAVE I told you about the new spring plaids? Probably, yes, in notes here and there, but just let's check up on them.

You see, there's something new in plaids. For the first time in the history of plaids, we see them developed in other than vividly contrasting colors. I don't know just why, therefore, the new plaids can presume to call themselves plaid, but I guess that's their business.

In describing them I can best say that the squares and the fine lines of contrasting color that we associate with plaids, are subdued in shade, and that there are much fewer colors in a plaid than formerly, in fact often two or three colors only. When it is two colors then the base of the material is one color either lighter or darker than the fine plaid-like stripes of another color which criss-crosses it.

And then as to where plaid is used. Well, I've already told you of the plaid bows which adorn many a summer hat of natural straw or paper panama. Other than that you will see plaid in many a summer dress, and in many a street dress, trimmed with a flat color. Or used as trimming for a frock of a flat color, particularly in accessories for such a frock.

• • • •

My mole skin jacquette is dark red, and I wear it with an all red outfit, shoes and hat and everything. These jacquettes dye a beautiful midnight blue or olive green or black, and in just such a design without too much collar weight and with three-quarter length sleeves, they are just perfect for both tailored street wear and dressy afternoon wear.

• • • •

You know I always order two or three of the same hat or dress when I find one that particularly flatters me? Well, I found a hat that I was simply crazy about, and was just about to order it done into three ways when I discovered that the same hat could be changed so that it was three hats! So, of course, I wouldn't do anything else but pull it to pieces for you and tell you how to make it, one hat—three ways, or one hat—three hats.

So if you would like to know how to make a very smart spring hat, one that Dare is taking back with her from Paris, just send your stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make it. And while you're waiting for it you can be laughing to yourself just knowing that you're going to have three new spring hats instead of one, for the price and the work of one!

• • • •

You know plaid is all the rage for spring, don't you? Also that it's a plaid of not too many colors, such as this black and white plaid from Agnes Drecoll-Beer that I sketched for you today. You can just see what an adorable dress it is can't you? And trimmed with a most novel tab arrangement • • • black tabs on white piquet tabs, the black ones buttoned down flat with white buttons!

• • • •

Oh, come, I forgot to tell you that there's my dark red moleskin jacquette sketched for you up in the corner • • • and that I'm going to have one made in squirrel if the unbalancing bank balance ever straightens itself around.

• • • •

And this paragraph is just to remind you to look for Dare's Weekly Fashion Letter in the Sunday Washington Post every week.

Au revoir!

Your Name
WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Alger" (also spelled "Algar") is of Anglo-Saxon and Germanic origin. It has come down to us from three main Germanic sources according to which it may mean "old spear," "elf spear" and "noble spear." The Hundred Rolls mentions a certain Elena Algar and an Ayelyine Algar.

Recalling the fact that practically all the early trades and occupations have given rise to family names, a reader inquires why the name "grocer" is not found in modern times. The question involves an error because this name with the old spellings "Groser" and "Grosser" is still occasionally seen in modern directories. However, it is true that this name was never very common. The reason for its rareness suggests some interesting facts concerning early history. The word "grocer" is a variation of the earlier form "grosser," which originally meant "one who sells by the gross" or "one who deals by wholesale." This method of selling was a relatively late development in the handling of food. However, a few exceptions "to prove the rule" are not lacking. For example, a certain John Grosarius (the latin form of "Grosser") is mentioned in a London list of names in 1310. For the most part, however, a merchant sold only one article of food. Thus we may account for such modern family names as "Cheeseman" (he who sells cheese), "Pepper" (a shortened form of the original "Pepperer," meaning "he who sells pepper") and "Spicer" (he who sells spices). This list could be lengthened to include several hundred recorded family names, many of which, however, have now died out.

(The next article of this series will include further remarks concerning the above-mentioned names.)

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

RHODODENDRONS AND BERRY-BEARING SHRUBS.

THE rhododendron or rose tree, as it was known to the classic Greeks, is outstandingly beautiful at all seasons. Some people believe that as a class rhododendrons are only suited to peaty soil. This is a mistake. The only place in which they will not do well in temperate regions is in a soil that is strongly impregnated with lime. Of course, even under such a condition you can change your soil by adding a quantity of peat and leafmold.

The secret of success with these broad-leaved evergreens is to provide them with ample protection against the cutting winds of winter by thick borders of other evergreens or deciduous shrubs, and to keep their rootsmoist in summer by a mulch of pine needles, peat or leaves. This mulch must be permitted to remain about their roots the entire twelve months of the year. With these two simple needs in mind, you need never hesitate to plant rhododendrons.

Some rhododendrons are prone to attacks of leaf spot, or of lace wing fly. There are several sprays on the market which will soon eradicate these pests. Any seedman will recommend such a spray.

Your shrubbery border is never complete unless you have at least one or two of the winter berry-bearing varieties. These from late summer well into the winter will add a pleasing note of blue, black or scarlet to your border. They will not only, when bathed into the house, add to the cheerfulness of your rooms but will fill your garden with song birds.

Among the shrubs which are fitted for general garden use are the sumacs, elderberries, viburnums, aronias, barberries, Cotonesasters, privets, bush honeysuckles, buckthorn, Siberian red osier and snowberry.

Any of these varieties are easily raised. Be sure, when planting, to dig a hole of sufficient size to allow the roots to spread naturally, and be sure to keep them well watered for the first ten days.

"THE PUBLIC IS AN ASS."

The public protest against the extravagant and unnecessary distribution of public money to able-bodied and employed world war veterans is a surprise to many legislators. They yielded to mob impulse in voting for the bonus, believing that taxpayers would patiently endure the added burden for the sake of relieving the needs of veterans actually in distress. But the public has discovered that only 250,000 veterans are in distress, while the bonus bill proposes to distribute money to 2,500,000 veterans, most of whom are able-bodied and employed. The bill was rushed through Congress without any effort to sound out public opinion, and in disregard of the warnings of the Treasury Department and the President.

Apparently many legislators believed that they were purchasing with public money the good will of veterans, whose votes would come in very nicely at forthcoming elections. The great unorganized public, that dumb and patient ass whose sole duty is to grind out tax money, was supposed to be ignorant of the transaction, and too stupid to protest in any event.

Now that the protest is rising, some of the amateurs in Congress think they have discovered an ingenious method of warding off public criticism. It is an old, discarded trick, invented years ago by forgotten demagogues who hoped to fool the public of their day, and none but callow younglings in demogogy would try to use it now. Their "discovery" is this: Tell the public that the proposed outlay is a mere matter of bookkeeping; that the money is already available; that no increased taxes will be necessary; that all this alarm over huge distributions to veterans is without any basis; that the Treasury, by simply juggling its accounts, can lend $1,000,000,000 to 2,500,000 veterans without any actual drain upon the cash box at all; that Secretary Mellon was wrong once when he made an estimate of probable tax returns, and therefore is wrong now when he thinks the paying out of $1,000,000,000 will be a drain upon the Treasury or a hardship to taxpayers.

Of course, the veterans are not to be told that they are to receive pieces of paper representing a juggling of accounts in the Treasury. They must be assured that they will receive actual cash; but those who put up the cash, the taxpayers, must be fooled into believing that the transaction is "mere bookkeeping." The veterans are to get $1,000,000,000, but the taxpayers are not to be out of pocket at all.

Believe it or not, this ancient piece of flimflam is actually put forth in the United States Senate by amateur demagogues who think they have discovered a novel method of fooling the public.

The ides of March are at hand. The reports of taxpayers, covering their incomes for 1930, will soon be in. Every one knows that these reports will show staggering losses of income, from Maine to California. The whole country was stricken during 1930. A gaping hole in the Treasury will represent the space filled by tax money in former years. This hole must be filled. The extraction of $1,000,000,000 will increase the size of this hole, and no smooth talk in Congress can conceal the fact.

If the bonus bill should be passed over the President's veto the taxpayers of the United States will be required to tighten their belts and undergo an extra and unnecessary burden at a time when they are weakened by the long strain of business depression. They will be told that the scattering of their tax money by means of the bonus will make better times. Added taxes, which will surely follow enactment of the bonus bill, will break the back of many an enterprise which might otherwise escape bankruptcy.

Legislators who voted for the bonus in the honest belief that a distribution of money from the Treasury would make better times have an opportunity to correct their error by voting to sustain the President's veto. Those who voted to use public money for political purposes will not be swayed by a desire to conserve the Nation's finances.

BIG FEDERAL RELIEF PROGRAM.

The Government's program for relief of the unemployed will probably reach its maximum expansion in the near future. President Hoover reports that 450,000 men will be given work directly or indirectly within the coming 30 days as a result of increased Federal construction. When all the provisions for construction in the current appropriation bills become available the Government will have devoted $700,000,000 toward the creation of jobs.

This gigantic program represents all that the Government can afford to spend in the stimulation of business activity. Congress has been generous in appropriating for construction work, as well as for direct relief. If the projects now authorized are carried out without delay, this program will be an influential factor in the restoration of normal economic activity.

Congress has anticipated the construction needs of the Government for a considerable period in advance. Unusual demands have been made of the Treasury in spite of the decreasing revenues. This state of affairs could not, of course, continue. The benefits accruing from the expanded program would soon be eaten up by increased taxation. Every dollar that goes toward the stimulation of employment comes from the taxpayers' pockets. There has been a tendency in some quarters to disregard the costs, but the Treasury can not disregard them. A period of reckoning must always follow a spree of spending.

With the adjournment of Congress the Government will be faced with the necessity of rigid retrenchment. Construction projects can be carried out, but there will be no unlimited supply of funds to continue this kind of business stimulation. It will be necessary to give attention to the depleted Treasury. A deficit of $500,000,000 is looming for the current fiscal year, and income taxes are likely to show a marked decrease. Business conditions are expected to improve, but the recovery will be gradual. Phenomenal increases in incomes for 1931 can not be anticipated. The greatest financial problem now facing the Government is how to avoid an increase in taxes.

No one regrets that the Government has launched a huge building program to relieve unemployment. But it is important that the people understand that the acceleration of Government construction can not continue indefinitely without adverse reactions. Business must realize that the Government has gone to the end of its rope in the creation of jobs. The Government has done its part, and the great remaining task of restoring normal times devolves upon private enterprise.

FOOD PRICES DECLINE.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports large declines in retail food prices for the year ended January 15. In Washington, the general average declined 11 per cent during the period. In 51 cities the decline for the year amounted to 14½ per cent. Moreover, the bureau reports that the tendency is still downward. Between December 15 and January 15 retail food prices in Washington declined 2 per cent and in the 51 cities 3 per cent.

The statistics assume increased interest in view of the recent Senate investigation of food prices. The Capper committee found that the price of bread was relatively higher than it should have been, whereupon the bakers reduced their prices materially. The committee found further that the price of milk in Washington was reasonable and that for the country as a whole it was not much too high, and that if there is any profiteering in meat it is only in isolated retail establishments. This fact was borne out in a radio address delivered recently by C. V. Whalin, of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Said Mr. Whalin: "While prices of slaughter cattle have been on a downward trend since January, 1929, they were accompanied by similar trends and greater declines in wholesale beef prices. The average wholesale price of good grade steer beef in New York during the first six weeks of this year was $14.58 per 100 pounds as compared with $19.88 for the same period in 1929. That was a drop of 5.3 cents per pound or 26.6 per cent."

The Capper investigation was more than justified when it brought about reduction in the price of bread. In addition, the mere fact that this investigation was held will serve to discourage profiteering in foodstuffs.

SMUGGLING OF NARCOTICS.

China is always regarded as a pathetic victim of the trade in narcotic drugs. Foreign monopolies forced opium upon the Chinese against their will, and untold thousands succumbed to the habit. China is not the only victim of the narcotic trade, however. Facts brought out at the conference on narcotic education in New York last week indicate that the United States suffers severely as a result of this illicit traffic.

The manufacture of habit-forming drugs is well under control in this country. Oscar W. Ewing told the conference that less than one-half of 1 per cent of the narcotics seized by Federal agents are of American manufacture. No "dope" manufactured in this country finds its way abroad. Yet a large supply is smuggled into this country. It is estimated that the losses caused by drug addiction and the cost of enforcing the antinarcotic laws in this country amount to at least $1,000,000,000 annually.

For a number of years it has been agreed that the most effective way to control the drug traffic is to limit its manufacture. Narcotics are produced in large factories which can easily be supervised. The manufacture of drugs can not be prohibited, because a limited supply is needed for medicinal purposes; but production could be curtailed so that drugs would be available only for medicinal use. International agreements for that purpose have been entered into, but only a few nations live up to their obligations. As a result people of the United States are victimized by the illicit drug traffic.

The suggestion of Dr. Frederick B. Robinson, president of the College of the City of New York, that the United States sever international relations with those countries which wink at the trade in narcotics, is of no practical importance. This Government can not undertake to punish other nations. In the circumstances about all the United States can do is to strengthen its own force for the prevention of smuggling. Apparently world opinion has not yet advanced to a point where the principal drug-producing nations are willing to limit their manufacture to the medicinal demand.

STRONG-ARM POLICE METHODS.

Speaking caustically of the increase in crime, Mayor Walker recently said: "When we deviated from the old policy of brass buttons and nightsticks, and substituted science and crime prevention, we suddenly awakened to find the city full of crime." The mayor followed this observation with an injunction to the New York police to return to the rough but effective measures of the old-time "cop," and to fight crime with brute force.

The trouble with advising policemen to use force is that all too frequently they misdirect it. Various cities have found that when the police were advised to use 'strong-arm methods" an intolerable situation soon developed. The police should not be made judge, jury and executioner. When they are permitted to use force on criminals there is a tendency to harass not only criminals, but the law-abiding public as well.

Individuals who resist peace officers should not be handled with kid gloves, and the police are warranted in using any force necessary to subdue them.

A STUDY OF PROHIBITION

From the Christian Science Monitor.

What the workingman is thinking of prohibition, what effect the law has had upon his drinking habits, whether he is "drinking more than ever," as the pet phrase of the antis puts it, are all questions of vital importance in the present active discussion of the "experiment, noble in purpose."

All of them are answered explicitly and convincingly by Whiting Williams in an article in the current Survey Graphic. Mr. Williams is not a propagandist, but a practical student of social phenomena. His is not the method of the theorist, but the objective system of an observer at first hand. This article tells of his observations made, as he says, "last summer when I moved unshaven and under an assumed name amongst groups of unemployed men in Pittsburgh, Detroit, Gary, Chicago and other cities which had given me opportunity for similar experience among workers in 1919."

The conclusions he reached Mr. Williams states in a few italicized paragraphs. The facts upon which he based his conclusions form the major portion of his article and are too many for full quotation. After joining his fellow "hoboes" in the purchase of strange and deadly drinks—"gasoline and denatured alcohol" was one—from "speakeasies" in slums and in abandoned houses where, as his companion put it, "of course they gotta know you," he reached this conclusion:

"In the old days more intoxicated men than I discovered this year could have been encountered in two or, possibly, three saloons within a few blocks in a single one of the whole list of communities visited."

One must be known to get a drink, and equally to have any certainty that the drink obtained is not "graveyard stuff" or "knockout drops." Thus even in the slums, as notoriously in our "best" society, the growing difficulty of getting "safe" liquor is making the whole thing too much bother for the would-be drinker. As a result of this difficulty, Mr. Williams concludes that:

"All the speakeasies of Homestead are not handling in a whole average day of 1930 as much of either alcohol or money as crossed a single average saloon bar in Homestead in a single morning of 1919.

Yet the workers drink. Of course, but not alcohol. "Every industrial district discloses nowadays hustling truck-load after truck-load of soft drinks, alongside of still others of bottled milk." It sounds like a very fortunate shift from the early morning beverage of preprohibition days—"the blacksmith and his helper"—which Mr. Williams describes as "a big whisky helped down by a huge beer."

The observer found not merely that enforcement of the law was steadily improving, but that there is a new respect for the enforcement officers even among those against whom they prosecute their campaigns. Men of a better type have taken up the work, and they are more free from political influence and the "pull" of the lawless. The writer quotes as the typical viewpoint that of an official, who said:

"Hardly more than a year have we been under civil service rules, and therefore able to weed out the ex-barkeeps and thugs put—and kept—in the enforcement unit by purely political pull. For the first time our force represents not jobs but careers. And one result is that when today we corner a bunch of 'leggers and answer their query by assuring them that we're "Federals," they tell us, "don't shoot, we'll come down"—and they don't try bribes on us, either.

Another declared that within the last year "civil service has brought so high a level of agents, and their evidence has been so carefully collected and so convincingly presented, that out of 235 indictments a plea of guilty was put in by all but four!"

Mr. Williams, though cautious of expressing opinions, and confining himself mainly to facts, foresees steadily increasing effectiveness of enforcement and "within a year or two a decided shift in public understanding and opinion." "We'd best at least be careful," he suggests, "about monkeying with a plan which, whatever its faults, has undoubtedly transferred . . . more than a few hundred million dollars from alcohol to gasoline, shoes and bath tubs."

What Will Happen if Congress Doesn't Go Home Soon.

POST HASTE.

Good morning! Is your cherry tree still standing?

When the next constitutional amendment is adopted the lame ducks will be replaced by day-old chicks.

With all the money you save on bread you can buy another newspaper.

Now, if those destroyers could just be called by some constructive name there might be less opposition.

Will the onus of the bonus match the veto undertow?

The Prince of Wales got his highest decoration at La Paz, Bolivia, more than 2 miles up in the air.

A farm women's market is to be established in Maryland. No hope, though, that they will be as cheap as those Arab girls selling in Palestine for $5 a year.

The House, with a near 10-to-1 vote on the bonus, is not only preparing to turn the other cheek, but is expecting a swift kick on the shiniest spot on the ole blue serge.

The Senate majority over eleven wheel-horses and lame ducks is more conservative, only 6 to 1, and some of them wear long-tailed coats.

Isn't that new popular song an infringement on the old "Buy Me Something to Remember You, Buy?"

We're still afraid to look up at the rocketeering stock market for fear we'll get the stick in our eye again.

The first "necessity" purchases after the bonus money is in circulation will be 50,000 automobiles. That's what makes Detroit so mad.

A general strike is threatened in Spain. It would be more serious in Mexico, where the generals form such a large percentage of the population.

London dealers complain that the tea industry is near ruin from "lack of vision." The same thing has removed a lot of profitable bootleg customers here.

Today's worry: That 100-inch telescope can see 250,000 times more stars than your eyes.

Social note—Mr. Levine, the junk dealer, who was the first man to take a junket trip to Europe by airplane, is being junked by his wife via the Paris route.

Beware of the tonic in platonic.

There seems to be a demand for shorter and more respectable names for bootlegger and speakeasy.

The expert who knows just where the President was wrong will soon be crying: "Kill the umpire," "Who said you could pitch?"

The Wickersham report is so impartial that either side can take the data and prove its every contention.

MEMORIES.

Afterwards, when I am dead,
I would like to have it said,
Where the children race and run:
"He did this or that for fun!"

When I've done with all the strife
And the serious side of life
I would rather men should tell:
"He told stories fairly well!"

And I shall not mind if they
After I have gone away
Laugh again, remembering that
When I sang my tones were flat.

Let the zinnia blooms recall
That I loved them one and all,
Or an old gray shirt declare:
"This is what he liked to wear."

Deeds for fame and deeds for gold
Leave but little to be told.
But in simple traits like these
Are man's happiest memories.

Either Wear Clothes to Fit the Climate or Find a Climate to Fit Your Clothes.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE universal motive that animates mankind is the desire for pleasure.

Whatever thing a man does—whether he takes a drink, marries a wife, builds a fine house or runs for office—his conscious or subconscious motive is the desire to "pleasure himself"—to add to the sum of his happiness.

Self-interest is the mainspring of existence; happiness the goal of all endeavor.

It would seem, then, that the individual determined to make his life ideal need only discover the thing that will make him happy.

But, alas! it is not as simple as that.

The thing that seems to promise happiness may bring woe in the end, and all indulgence ends in satiety.

A saner and safer plan is to discover and avoid the things that cause unhappiness.

Chief of these is frustration—restraint—the clash of ideals and reality.

Fully 90 per cent of the cases in institutions for the treatment of "nervous breakdowns" are there because of thwarted desires—because of longing for the unobtainable—because of enduring too long and too resentfully some situation that mocked a hoped-for ideal.

A man ruled by his sense of duty lives too long with a wife whose presence is unbearable; a woman with fine sensibilities too long endures a husband who is coarse and unclean; a youth whose one interest is machinery too long restrains his own desires to please parents who would make him a bookworm; a daughter-in-law too long endures restraints imposed in the home of her husband's mother; an idealist too long and too unwillingly holds his tongue and submits to conditions that depress and anger him.

There is the chief cause of unhappiness.

The weaker cases break under the strain; the others live in sullen, baleful discontent.

To dream vainly of things as they should be and refuse to accept things as they are is to invite disaster.

Those who are unwilling or unable to adjust themselves to the inevitable are the most unhappy of men.

What, then, is the remedy?

First of all, face the facts. That is the beginning of all wisdom.

Be fair enough to admit that your longing for the unattainable is silly. Realize how absurd it is to resent the inevitable.

Then make up your mind to do one of two things: Either say to yourself: "This thing can't be helped, so I'll be sport enough to bear it cheerfully," or else, realizing that it can be helped if you are willing to pay the price, cut loose and get out.

It is foolish to eat prunes resentfully. Either learn to like prunes or change your boarding house.

PRO AND CON

Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great Show, "Politics," Staged in Congress.

The Vote on the Bonus.

Boston Transcript.

In estimating the degree of political glory or of blame that may accrue from the passage of the bonus bill, it will be noted that in neither House did a Democrat vote against it. Of the 39 opposing votes in the lower branch, all were cast by Republicans, and their party furnished the distinguished twelve recorded against the measure in the Senate; a significance somewhat modified, however, by recalling that one of that dozen came from the eccentric Borah, of Idaho, who has just been reelected. As an offhand theory, it might seem that this curious result would entitle the Democratic party to the everlasting gratitude and votes of the legionnaires, but considered as an example of safe and sane legislating, it may not bulk so large. Admittedly, the bill, involving a potential expense of a billion dollars and a possible bond issue, and defeating any chance of reducing taxes, if not actually compelling an increase, was passed by statesmen who had not even read it.

Both parties are gunning for the confidence of the commercial world, and it would seem as if the Republicans had a slight edge, from that point of view.

No Money for the Navy.

New York World.

Speaker Longworth, in giving out the legislative slate of the House for what is left of the present session of Congress, reveals that the bill appropriating $74,000,000 for naval construction up to the limits set by the London treaty has not much chance of consideration. The Speaker hopes to see the bill "brought up early in the next Congress"—which will not convene until December, unless summoned in special session, and which will be in full working trim about January, 1932.

A good many people who regard further Navy building as pure waste, without perhaps sufficiently considering its effect upon future agreements for further restriction of armaments, will hear the news with satisfaction. But it is not because the representatives share their point of view that consideration of the construction bill is postponed. It is because Congress is engaged in such a mad stampede to appropriate money to influence votes that it has neither members' time nor Government funds to waste upon measures of really national importance.

Birds and Birds.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Neglect of the Navy Neither Economy Nor Statesmanship.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Press accounts of the doings of Congress frequently lead me to wonder whether or not congressmen ever read anything outside of the Congressional Record and their local home paper.

The attitude of many of them just now toward the Navy suggests that our naval history is largely taboo in congressional circles. Starving the Navy, cutting down its personnel and thus adding to the numbers of unemployed, slowing up if not closing down operations in navy yards and thereby throwing large bodies of skilled mechanics out of work is neither economy nor statesmanship. It is an evidence of complacent ignorance of the part played in our Nation's history by the Navy.

It was the Navy that made for success in our brief war with Spain, it was the Navy that enabled Roosevelt to warn off the kaiser from exploiting South America, and it was the American Navy that prepared the way for the American Army in the World War.

Congressmen may have read of the London pact, but it does not look as if they have. Having raised a hullabaloo about equality between the navies of this Nation and Britain, we see our Congress deliberately refusing to make good on that agreement, although we are 160,000 tons short of equality with Britain. What a joke we make of ourselves by such policies!

It might be well to remind Congress that every war we have undertaken has cost us many times what it would had we been governed by common sense and not penny-pinching sentiment during peace times. Also that navies can not be built in a day or a year.

To me, however, the present pinch-penny policy is all the more reprehensible, unpatriotic and dangerous because it is a direct factor and feeder in increasing the number of idle men in our land. By diminishing our national land and naval forces and by refusing to provide navy yards with the work needed to bring our Navy to proper strength, our Congress is deliberately fostering the very trouble which it professes to cure—unemployment!

Suggests Public Buildings East of the Capitol to Avoid Traffic Congestion.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The recent letter stating that subways will be necessary to relieve street car traffic in this city is correct if the present procedure of Government planning is followed; but this congestion is not necessary. Most of our citizens live in the Northwest section of this city and the bulk of the traffic through the business district is north and south. It is evident that by increasing the density of population in the business district on a north and south section increases traffic congestion; but spreading the new construction in an east-west direction relieves congestion by making possible more north and south lanes of traffic. New Government buildings south of the Mall would increase traffic congestion.

Those conversant with the research work of our corporations which manufacture items used in building construction know that in the next decade the buildings now under construction will be as archaic as their architecture. Scientific means of communication will annihilate the distance between departments and developments in methods of heating, ventilation, and insulation will render obsolete our present central heating plants.

Could it not be possible to locate the new War and Navy Building east of the Capitol, where functional architecture could prevail, and where the design would be so elastic as to provide for future vertical extensions? All experimental and research laboratories of the Department of Agriculture should be located in the vicinity of the Arboretum.

Subways will entail millions of dollars of additional taxes on the property owners of the District. By locating some of the Government buildings to the east of the Capitol, subways would not be necessary, and greater use could be made of the suburban traffic possibilities of the railroads.

CHERO SUHANNO.

Tendency to Clutter Up the Mall With Buildings Is Deplored by James Price.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I do not suppose any one will regret the passing of the "Old National Museum" building, which is to be razed and replaced by another. At the time of its erection it was the subject of much adverse criticism, and, built close up to the beautiful Smithsonian, it is certainly our most horrible example of inharmonious architecture.

Judging from the past, I am afraid that the structure to replace it will also be erected on the Mall, but I devoutly hope not.

Building on the Mall has already gone so far that the claim that "just one more won't make any difference" may be given favorable consideration. You know how such things happen. In a year or so some one will find it desirable to add another building to the Mall group. Then from time to time one pile of masonry after another will be added until the Mall will finally become the world's most famous center of columnar magnificence. But it will not be the Mall originally intended.

RUSSIANS ACCUSED OF INDUSTRIAL PLOT

Conspiracy to Retard Soviet Development Plans Is Laid to Leaders.

Moscow, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Following the investigation into counter-revolution activities of the so-called "Social Democratic Party," the government today announced two prominent scholars soon would be brought to trial before the supreme court.

The accused leaders of the party are Vladimir Groman and Nicolai Soukhanov. They were arrested with numerous others last July.

While the indictment against the two men has not be made public, it is understood they are charged with plotting to slow down the tempo of the industrial development plan through organization of the Social Democratic Party.

There is supposed to be some indefinite connection between the accused men and the Engineers Industrialist Party, the leaders of which were convicted after a recent sensational trial here. Observers for the most part consider the case somewhat unimportant since the government is in complete control and counter-revolutionary movements are almost non-existent.

Gromon is one of the famous economist in Russia. He wrote a book on the five-year industrialization plan, which was translated into numerous languages.

Soukhanov also is noted as an economist and historian. His long history of the Soviet revolution is recognized as a textbook.

The present Russian Communist party is an outgrowth of the old Russian Social Democratic party, which was founded in the latter part of the past century on the principles of Karl Marx. Later it broke up into two parties, the Bolsheviki and the Mensheviki. Members of the latter, which holds more moderate views than the Bolsheviki, make up the new Social Democratic party.

After the establishment of the Communist party, the Mensheviki were in the minority in the party.

Plane Is Designed For Average Man

Manufacturers to Make "Foolproof" Craft to Suit Every Garage.

New York, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—The aircraft makers are out to put an airplane into every garage. Ten companies have devised small, light, moderate-priced planes, and their potential customer is the average man who, a dozen years ago, was finding that he could afford an automobile. The airplane manufacturers hope this next summer to open up the air for democracy.

More than half a dozen models of the new planes will be displayed at the National Aircraft Show in Detroit, April 11 to 19. The builders of some of these new ships promise the novice he can learn to fly in 20 minutes of dual instruction.

The planes are heralded as "almost foolproof," with speeds of up to 90 miles an hour, landing speeds as slow as 20 miles an hour, and a range of 25 miles to a gallon of gasoline. They will sell at $900 to $1,500.

'BUTLER INCIDENT' RENEWAL IS SEEN

speech and the Navy Department ordered the Marine general court-martialed. Later the court-martial proceedings were dropped and Gen. Butler was reprimanded, retaining his rank.

Remark Casual One.

Mr. O'Brian's remark was a casual one, made in the midst of a speech defending the Hoover administration. He did not enlarge upon the Italian situation. After he had made the speech, his attention was called to the single paragraph in which he referred to Italy and he offered an explanation.

"Perhaps I made a poor choice of words in expressing my idea," he said. "It was not my purpose to cast aspersions upon Italy or its rulers. I was giving expression to a contrast. I understand that when the depression came to Italy, Mussolini issued a manifesto ordering a 10 per cent cut in government salaries. I understand this was later extended further into private employment. The thought I had was that the Federal Government here has taken no such action."

Although this explanation soothed some Italian feelings here, the general opinion was that Mr. O'Brien had added fuel to the flames already set by the Butler speech and had given voice to a critical attitude toward Mussolini held in American official circles.

Judge John J. Freschi, of Special Sessions, summed up the sentiments of Italian-Americans of the pro-Fascist group when he said today:

Is Called Unwarranted.

"A statement of this kind is not only silly but unwarranted. Mr. O'Brian is a lawyer of ability. Hence I consider the more serious the mistake he has made. If he had gone to Italy and learned about conditions there he would have learned that it is a heavenly place to live in. People there, especially the laboring classes, are happy and contented as well as prosperous.

"We in America are not in a position to judge whether the cutting down of wages in a foreign country works injustice, especially if in that country the standard of living is lower than our own. We know of many instances in which wages have been cut in our own country in spite of the prevailing and sustained high cost of living.

"Mr. O'Brian was most unfortunate in his choice of words and I doubt seriously whether he meant to say what those words imply, seeing that Mr. O'Brian is an official of the Federal Government. I as an American citizen more than regret an expression of this character which might bring offense or embarrassment to a friendly nation."

CONFIDENCE VOTED TO GANDHI BY GROUP

All-India Congress Gives Him Full Power to Deal With Viceroy.

New Delhi, India, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Full power to make any decision in behalf of the all-India National Congress in his dealings with the viceroy was given to Mahatma Ghandi today by the working committee, which is the cabinet of the congress. The action is regarded as tantamount to a vote of confidence in the ability of the little Nationalist leader to obtain the maximum concessions for India from the British.

It also would appear to set at rest rumors of a split in the opinions of the working committee. There had been reports that some of the more moderate members disagreed with Gandhi's views and favored peace at any price.

Both sides in the present peace parleys are marking time, pending the receipt from London of the British cabinet's views regarding Gandhi's terms for peace. The chief points in his demands are general amnesty for political prisoners, inquiry into alleged excesses by police, restoration of property confiscated from citizens for nonpayment of taxes, the rights of members of the congress to hinder the sale of foreign cloth, and the freedom of peasants in making salt.

A feeling of cautious optimism prevails in both camps that an agreement or compromise will be reached between Gandhi and Lord Irwin on all these points. Gandhi expects to be summoned at any moment to the viceroy's palace for resumption of the negotiations.

Gandhi said today, "I am not more hopeful about ultimate peace, but rather less hopeful than I was in the beginning."

CHANG'S SON RULES IN NORTHERN CHINA

War Lord of Manchuria Will Commute to Home in American Plane.

Peiping, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Although nominally working in conjunction with and under the orders of the Nanking government, Chang Hsueh-liang, 30-year-old Manchurian war lord, has, in effect, reestablished the old suzerainty of his father, the late Chang Tso-lin, over northern China.

Chang is establishing a residence and headquarters in the lower part of the Forbidden City, and will use an American trimotored airplane to commute back and forth to his other home, Mukden, 400 miles distant.

So far as Nanking goes, Chang's official title will be vice generalissimo of the Chinese national sea, land and air forces, and an official statement says, effective early next month, he will have charge of Hopei, Shansi, Chahar and Suiyan provinces, as well as Manchuria.

As some military groups in Shantung have a close affiliation with Mukden, this means virtually all China north of the Yellow River will pass under his control. Mukden dispatches assert Chang has succeeded in reassuring the provincial leaders concerning recent negotiations with Nanking and they understand the new relationship.

Unlike his predecessor, Chang's minions have the reputation of being good spenders, and Peiping business men are much heartened by an announcement that Chang plans to set up eight departments, including a commissariat, medical corps, communication bureau and secretariat, here.

One of the war lord's immediate problems will be clearing up a difficult postwar situation in the northwestern provinces caused by the dumping of hordes of defeated troops upon a populace already reduced to beggary by famine, banditry and military exactions.

While the prospect of a major outbreak is considered remote at present, observers feel this condition constitutes a serious danger and calls for the most delicate handling.

Chang's father, old Chang Tso-lin, at the height of his power operated from Peiping. After the fall of that city to the Nanking Nationalist troops he retreated into Manchuria, where he was assassinated. Persons whose identity was never disclosed bombed his train.

Bread Line Quiets Hungry Mexicans

Border Town Serene Again After Start of Riot Is Put Down.

Mexicali, Lower California, Mexico, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—All was serene in this border city today after an outbreak yesterday of several hundred hungry cotton pickers, temporarily out of work because of heavy rains which have made it impossible to work in the fields.

Clear weather has prevailed for several days, and the cotton fields, drenched and soggy, are almost dried out enough for labor to be resumed.

Soldiers were withdrawn from the streets last night after what appeared to be the beginning of a riot was put down. About 200 men and women were fed today from a bread line. Signs telling the populace to be patient and warnings against any further outbreaks were placed on poles and buildings throughout the city.

Princes, Now in Santiago, May Set New Men's Styles

Rush for Sailor Hats Follows Arrival in Chile; George Proves Most Popular Among Maidens; British Visitors Attend Church.

Santiago, Chile, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—The Prince of Wales and Prince George, who arrived yesterday by plane from Antofagasta, may set new styles in this Latin-American land, which is one of the last to adhere to the traditional dark dress.

When the British princes arrived they were wearing straw hats of the sailor type, light gray suits and colored shirts. Santiago hatters said today that there had been a considerable rush for sailor hats as a result. Straws have been little worn here before, and some of them were black.

It is Prince George who has set the hearts of Chilean girls fluttering rather than his elder and more famous brother, the Prince of Wales.

George's smile, his reserved manner and his striking good looks have drawn the opinions of the Chilean maidens that the Prince of Wales, hitherto known as the conqueror of feminine hearts the world over, now has a great competitor in his younger brother.

The British princes today attended St. Stephen's War Memorial Church, a British edifice. There they heard the Rev. W. C. Couch preach on England's great mission in spreading peace and good will throughout the world. He said the present trade trip of the two princes was the best evidence of this being carried out.

The Prince of Wales sat in a front pew with Lady Chilton, wife of the British Ambassador to Chile, while Prince George and the others were across the aisle. Both listened attentively to the sermon and the prayer of the rector, which was for the royal family of Great Britain and mentioned the President of the United States.

The Chilean press has printed heavy special editions in honor of the guests.

London, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—King George spoke today with the Prince of Wales.

The fact that the father was at Buckingham Palace in London and the son at the British Embassy in Santiago made no difference in these days of long-distance telephony and the conversation was carried on easily for some minutes.

The voice of the Prince of Wales passed over a land line to Buenos Aires, then was carried by wireless to the British postoffice receiving station at Baldock, and finally was relayed through the London exchange to Buckingham Palace. The king's voice traveled by land line through Rugby, then by wireless to Buenos Aires and over land line to Santiago.

Ship in Gale Abandoned And All Aboard Saved

London, Feb. 22 (A. P.).—Lloyd's Shipping Agency reported today that the Latvian steamer Everline, which was drifting helplessly in a gale near the Orkney Islands yesterday, was abondoned today and the crew was taken aboard the Trawler Monmis.

Efforts yesterday to tow the distressed vessel to the Scottish coast were unsuccessful.

MANY STOCKS GO UP IN BULLISH TRADING

Speculators Persistently Angle for Public to Enter the Market.

MONEY LITTLE FIRMER

New York, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Bullishness bloomed afresh in the stock market this week.

Although the speculative fraternity acknowledges that it is a hothouse flower, they express the confident hope that the business temperature will rise sufficiently to permit transplanting into the open by spring.

Although the market drooped a little after the bear salubrious effects of panic of a fortnight ago, and was nipped by selling last Tuesday, it put forth fresh shoots during the latter sessions of the past week, and reached a level not seen since the middle of last October.

Public Is Tempted.

The speculative fraternity angled persistently for help from the general public, and the volume of trading Saturday, which was the largest since last May, indicated that the bait was being nibbled rather vigorously.

The business news during the week was in the main stimulating to market bullishness, particularly further gains in automobile and steel production, and an upturn in building activity. Furthermore, commodity prices showed more stability than they have in recent weeks. In grains, cotton, and nonferrous metals, trends were somewhat irregular at times, but in the main upward.

Nevertheless, some conservative banking circles were said to feel that bullishness might very well be overdone at this time, and some observers thought selling orders were placed at times for the purpose of keeping the market in check. The vigorous upbidding of stocks on Saturday was presumably governed in part by a desire to give the market a strong appearance before the Sunday-Monday closing. A sharp decline might cause some deterioration of enthusiasm before trading is resumed on Tuesday.

Bonds Are Reassuring.

The action of the bond market was distinctly reassuring, for despite the passage of the Bacharach soldier bonus bill by Congress with a majority indicating that it would be carried over a veto, Government securities steadied, and ewen worked a little higher. Apparently financial interests were gratified that the indicated demands for Government financing are no larger. Furthermore, the diminishing likelihood of an extra session of Congress was put forward as a bullish argument.

The foreign bond issues actually turned upward with substantial buying here and there. Sterling exchange, however, has shown little improvement after its sudden drop on Chancellor Snowden's pessimistic remarks on the budget, and is again close to the levels where New York might take gold from London.

Foreign trade figures for January showed another sharp drop, leading to the conclusion that the business of regaining foreign markets for American merchandise will be slow. While bankers believe the revival of foreign financing in Wall street would be helpful, the large amount of domestic financing pending is expected to prevent any such development in the near future despite the better demand that has appeared for the listed foreign issues.

Money market conditions were changed but little, although there was an upward revision of acceptance rates, and time money was a little firmer. Bankers state that plentiful credit is assured for some time, which makes the longer-range outlook for the bond market distinctly favorable.

Curb Review

New York, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Strength was well distributed through the curb market last week and the bull party had little difficulty in maintaining control.

Numerous features stood out in the trading. Heavy buying of the Canadian Ford shares, consistent gains in numbers of specialties, a late rally in the oils, new 1931 tops for most of the utility favorites and some unfavorable news in the investment trust group were high spots of the week.

The best advances in Ford of Canada "A" and "B" appeared before the announcement of a higher Dominion tariff on American cars. Stock of the English company reacted sharply toward the end of the week, accompanied by reports that dividends accruing to the holding concern from various European subsidiaries would not be taken. It was pointed out, however, that this income would probably go to a new Swedish company owned by Ford, Ltd., which would receive the dividends, thereby effecting a saving in taxes.

Mead Johnson, Driver Harris, Swift Internacional, Cuneo Press, American Cynamid, De Forest Radio, Anglo-Chilean Nitrate, Great Atlantic & Pacific and Aluminum of America were prominent specialties on the move upward. Electric Bond & Share asserted its leadership of the utilities with a rally to 58. Oils were aided by the discussion on Government restriction of crude and refined petroleum imports.

Omission of the dividends on preferred and common stocks of Continental Shares, Inc., dropping of the stock payment by United Founders and capital readjustments by Second and Third National Securities were further reflections of the difficulties through which the management trusts passed during the long decline. Goldman Sachs Trading, whose break-up value at the close of the year was placed at $12.40 a share, came to life during the rally and reached a new high for the year.

WALL STREET NEWS BRIEFS

New York, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—The financial community today enjoyed the first half of a two-day week-end holiday. The New York Stock and Curb Exchanges, the banks and all the commodity markets will be closed tomorrow in observance of Washington's birthday.

A slight decrease in gas utility sales for 1930 is indicated by comparative operating reports of manufactured and natural gas utilities to the American Gas Association. Manufactured gas industry reports indicate sale of 353,832,087,000 cubic feet in 1930, against 354,268,765,000 cubic feet in 1929, a decline of 1-10 of 1 per cent. Natural gas reports showed sales in excess of 572,000,000,000 cubic feet, a decrease of 1.4 per cent from 1929.

New State and municipal bond issues scheduled for award this week aggregate $28,811,236, compared with actual offerings of $12,856,000 in that classification last week. The largest single award scheduled is a new issue of $15,000,000 4 or 4¼ per cent Philadelphia bonds, to be placed Friday. New Haven, Conn., will place $2,185,000 4½ per cent improvement bonds on Thursday and Seattle will be in the market with $1,000,000 waterworks extension bonds on Friday.

Discussing the current automobile outlook, E. J. Kulas, president of Midland Steel Products Co., writing in Trade Winds, published by the Union Trust Co., of Cleveland, said improvements in automotive industries has begun and that the year should bring steadily reviving activities, with a probable increase in total production of automobiles for the year of 10 to 15 per cent over 1930.

FOREIGNS FEATURE GAINS

New York, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—The best that can be said for the bond market last week was that it held its ground in the face of favorable action by Congress on the soldiers' bonus legislation.

Only nominal interest was displayed by buyers in home investment issues and price movement was in a narrow rut most of the week. The sustained rally in the share market was reflected in decreased activity and pronounced strength in convertibles and other obligations of a semispeculative character.

Inquiry for some of the standard European governments picked up toward the close of the week, some advancing to new highs for the year. French 7s sold at a record high and the 7½s duplicated their record peak. There was heavy trading in German loans, with firming price tendencies in evidence. The widest moves were in Australian bonds, which reached new minimums for recent years before rallying briefly to recover several points.

Buyers appeared inclined to await further developments before accumulating domestic bonds in any large volume. There was a fair demand for some of the legal rails. Union Pacific first 4s sold at the highest price in twenty years, and Atchison general 4s moved up to 99½. Both issues were widely held by savings banks and other institutions.

For the first time in weeks United States Governments were quiet. Passage by Congress of the soldiers' bonus bill caused no reaction, but on the other hand there was no enthusiasm among buyers and price movement was narrow. Financing for the week amounted to only $50,000,000.

Income Tax Facts

No. 22.

With the number of automobile owners registering in the millions, the question of deductions for the cost of maintenance and operation of a car frequently is addressed to the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The purchase price of an automobile, whether it be used solely for business or solely for pleasure, can not be deducted from gross income in the making of an income-tax return. If used for business, it is a capital expenditure; if used for pleasure, it is a personal expenditure—both deductions being expressly prohibited by the revenue act.

However, there are several allowable deductions in connection with the maintenance and operation of an automobile, used either for business or pleasure. If the car is used exclusively for business purposes there may be deducted the entire cost of gasoline, repairs, oil, tires, rent for garage and other necessary expenses connected with operation and upkeep. Depreciation based on the cost of the car and its estimated useful life, also is a deductible item. Where a business car is exchanged for another car, any loss sustained in the transaction may be claimed as a deduction. To illustrate, if a truck having an estimated life of four years and which cost $1,200 was traded at the end of three years for a new truck and an allowance of $100 was made for the old truck, the allowable deduction would be $200, computed as follows: Depreciation for three years, $900; allowance received, $100; loss sustained, $200.

The cost of the operator's permit, license fees and State or local taxes imposed on the ownership of a car—sometimes referred to as a personal property tax—also may be deducted.

Fort Myer Riding Show To Be Staged Thursday

Another event in its series of exhibition horse rides will be staged as a diplomatic ride Thursday by Fort Myer. Announcement was made that two performances will be held at Fort Myer on both March 27 and 28 as a gala circus to combine the best features of the several rides held at the Army encampment.

Proceeds of the circus will be used for athletics at the fort and for other activities for which no funds are appropriated.

BUSINESS CHEERED BY SPRING OUTLOOK

Building Reports Bolster the Hope That Depression Is on Decline.

INGOT PRODUCTION RISES

New York, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—With March only a week away, business has heard a chirp or two that sounded very much like a spring robin.

The great steel, motor and building industries, while still very much depressed, have shown gratifying improvement for February, a month when little is expected. If this foreshadows marked improvement in March and April, months of normal seasonal acceleration, it is good news indeed.

Business executives, however, are keeping their feet on the ground. They recall that the early signs of spring last year, figuratively, were followed by killing frosts, and the seasonal stirrings of industrial activity last August failed to develop into the expected autumn harvest of profitable business. Hopes for this spring, however, are bolstered by the historical experience that the longer a cyclical business recession endures, the riper it grows for recovery.

F. W. Dodge Report.

The brightest business news of the past week was perhaps the F. W. Dodge report on building contracts let in first half of February. The daily average was about $2,500,000 above that of January. February usually records a gain over January, but the average is little better than 16 per cent, while the present rate of gain, if maintained through the month, will bring an upturn of fully 27 per cent. This is a cheering prospect after a disappointing January.

Motor production continues to increase, in a rather spotty manner perhaps, but clearly in excess of expectations a month ago. Some makers have found that their purchases of raw materials had been too conservative, and have urged steel mills to make rush deliveries.

Operations are yet at a level which would seem to assume duplication of last year's output for the first half of the year, but executives state very definitely that the recent pickup has been due to a real consumer demand, which is decidedly encouraging for the outlook for the spring months.

Steel Ingot Output.

The sudden bulge in demand for automotive steel has brought an increase in the country's total steel ingot output for the eighth successive week. Ingot output is now variously estimated around 50 per cent of capacity, with one estimate placing it as high as between 52 and 53 per cent.

There have been rather steady increases in demand for miscellaneous finished steel products. Owing to the reduction in railway earnings, buying of railroad equipment has been far below normal, but the past few days have brought a little more inquiry from the carriers. More business in the pipe line and structural steel is expected with the approach of open weather.

Among lighter lines of manufacturing, textile mills show sustained improvement, and observers are again recalling that this industry was the first to turn upward after the preceding severe business slump, that of 1921. There has been a good demand for finished cotton and print cloths in primary markets.

"Wawona"—one of the most famous of California's Big Trees—in the Upper Group of the Mariposa Grove. Some of these trees measure seventy-five to one hundred feet in circumference. One is thirty-five feet in diameter and three hundred feet in height.

Old-Established — Growing

"Good-will must be earned by long years of right business practice."

(From the book "Standards of Business," by Elwood E. Rice)

OLD, strong and growing for centuries before the discovery of America, the Big Trees of the Mariposa Grove have each year added ring upon ring to their reputation for stability among the forest growths. Living men of ripest age learned about these Monarchs of the Forest when boys at school, and have told their children and children's children how the mighty trunks and stately branches of these famous trees still tower majestically into the green future.

So, too, in the business world, with years and well-attested reputation, comes continued growth.

Many members of the Rice Leaders of the World Association have been established for more than half a century; some represent four and even five generations of steady growth. All of them, with the fertile seed of right principle implanted in their policy, have upheld the highest standards of approved business practice. Throughout the years, they have spread their roots deep and strong, with thought for future weathers and a life beyond the span allotted men.

Because of their proved stability and permanence, you may place implicit confidence in members of the Rice Leaders of the World Association. The soundness of the principles upon which their growth has been based gives assurance of service, satisfaction and honest value to every buyer, seller or user of their products. These principles are set forth in the Association's Emblem, and defined in its

Qualifications for Membership:

HONOR:	A recognized reputation for fair and honorable business dealings.
QUALITY:	An honest product, of quality truthfully represented.
STRENGTH:	A responsible and substantial financial standing.
SERVICE:	A recognized reputation for conducting business in prompt and efficient manner.

Without reflecting in any way upon estimable concerns not members, the Association identifies, through use of its Emblem of Business Character, the manufacturers accepted into its membership. These are chosen in large part as the result of views gathered from important distributors and consumers throughout the United States—those who have first-hand knowledge of the manufacturer's personnel, products and policies, gained by years of business relations.

Look for this Emblem, which completely symbolizes the standards of members, in their catalogs, literature and advertisements—on their stationery, salesmen's cards and products. Wherever seen, it distinguishes manufacturers whom you will recognize as old-established concerns, growing steadfastly in public confidence and favor.

FEBRUARY 23, 1906.

Washington's Birthday was celebrated yesterday in many of the churches in the city, and in scores of private gatherings.

The opening gun of the Mexican War Veterans' convention was fired today, when the old stormers of Buena Vista assembled at the National Hotel and held a great rally.

A life-size bust of the Rev. George Whitfield Sampson, president of Columbian College from 1859 to 1871, was presented to George Washington University. The bust is the work of Clark Mills.

Elaborate plans are under way for the erection of a new home for the Japanese Embassy, it was announced today.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

DON'T GIVE UP THE FIGHT.

IN 1923 the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., began a study of obesity, which study led them to the conclusion that it is better for a fat man to have tried and lost rather than never to have tried at all.

In that year they undertook to reduce weights of about three hundred of their overweight employes. The job was under the direction of physicians and dietitians, and the employes were exceptionally cooperative. At the end of the extensive course four-fifths of those who were trying to do so had lost weight; the average reduction was fifteen pounds; at the end of one year only one-third had continued to lose weight; the others had gone back to their food and had regained their fat. At the end of five years it was found that one-fifth had stuck and four-fifths had relapsed.

But even the faint of heart had received benefit from temporary reducing. The fat persons who had high blood pressure saw their blood pressure come down, even though the fall in weight and the continuance of dieting was disappointing. The same general good effect followed dieting when the fat persons had heart disease associated with their obesity. People with other organic diseases had some decrease in their symptoms.

The study also showed that overweight people should be more careful in the selection of their parents. Of those studied at least one-half had one parent that was fat; one-fourth had both parents fat. When only one parent had been fat that one was generally the mother.

Another discovery made during this study was that people who were overweight were apt to be children of parents who had some one of the diseases related to obesity. This was especially true of diabetes. When the family history of fat people is investigated it is found that an undue number of the parents had diabetes. The same tendency is found, though in lesser measure, for the medical history of the parents to show undue prevalence of high blood pressure, apoplexy, heart disease, and kidney disease. This shows that the sins of the parents are visited on the children in the first generation, since improper habits have something to do with diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure, and kidney disease. Perhaps the taste for fattening foods and the appetite for excessive amounts of food is, in part, inherited.

SCARLET FEVER.

V. N. writes: The article on scarlet fever in your paper has frightened me somewhat. I understand from the letter written by M. A. that her niece suffered no ill effects from the disease and had no symptoms of any other disease but was taken unawares. Am I correct? I had it when I was 8 years old and am now 20. Is there any danger of my developing any other of the diseases you mentioned? Up to this time I have had no ill effects.

REPLY.

The story carried several items. Most of them related to the contagiousness of scarlet fever. I judge you refer to the woman who died from Bright's disease caused by scarlet fever. The death occurred many years after the primary disease. Bright's disease is one of the more frequently encountered after-effects of scarlet fever. Perhaps you would be reassured if analysis proved that you had escaped this after-effect.

CLEVELAND LOOMS AS SITE FOR SCHMELING BOUT

Burgess Tops D. C. College Scorers

G. W. Star, With 169 Points, Tops Berger by Four.

Twenty-eight Events on C. U. Carnival Card Tonight.

WITH four more games to play, against one or two for his nearest competitors, Forrest Burgess, keen-eyed George Washington forward, practically clinched first place last week in the local collegiate individual scoring race for 1930-1931.

Burgess, who appears in three games this week and one next week, now sports a total of 169 points for thirteen games and an average of 13 points per game. Since his goal and fould shooting has been consistent all season it is not expected that he will suffer a slump with the end in sight.

Berger, of Maryland, Second.

Second to Burgess, and with but one more game in which to enhance his position, is Bozie Berger, Maryland University act. Berger is just 4 points behind Burgess, but must do some superhuman work against Johns Hopkins Wednesday night in order to close the race on top.

Del Cosgrove, who for the last two years has led the pack, trails Berger by 14 points and has two more games on his list. If the Gallaudet star repeats his performance of last Friday, when he clicked off 17 points against Maryland State Normal, he may beat Berger for second place.

Walter Morris, Georgetown captain, and Johnny Ringle, Gallaudet's giant center, hold fourth and fifth places, respectively, with totals of 137 and 134. Complete statistics will be found appended.

This week's calendar of events for Capital collegians includes Catholic University's first sports circus, scheduled tonight in Brookland Gymnasium, and five home basket ball games and a boxing meet. Excepting tomorrow, every day will bring some sort of action in a local gymnasium.

Diverse Program at C. U.'s "Circus."

Catholic University's "Circus" tonight will present something novel in the way of college athletic entertainment, as, mixed with events of a serious nature, Athletic Director Arthur Bergman will stage several comical stunts as blind-fold and barrel boxing, sack and wee-barrow racing, and song and dance acts. The program begins at 8:30 o'clock with Mike Durson, C. U. graduate, acting as master of ceremonies. Following is the program:

1, C. U. quartette; 2, Carr vs. Carr, 2-round boxing; 3, 40-yard dash; 4, 135-pound boxing, Marvallas vs. DiGiacomo; 5, barrel boxing, Garafolo vs. Capozio; 6, 40-yard low hurdles; 7, song and dance, Mike Durso; 8, 175-puond boxing, Fyne vs. Lyons; 9, sack boxing, Blast vs. Dutto; 10, three-legged race, interclass competition; 11, wrestling exhibition by Maryland University; 12, C. U. quartette; 13, 145-pound boxing, Loscalzo vs. Stines; 14, Indian club relay, interclass competition; 15, boxing exhibition, Scullen vs. Scullen; 16, masked boxing, Sheary vs. Whelan; 17, sack race, interclass competition; 18, wrestling exhibition by Maryland University; 19, blindfold boxing, Gleason vs. McInnery; 20, 155-pound boxing, Formel vs. Stapleton.

21, piano selection, Michael J. McDonald; 22, wheelbarrow race, club competition; 23, blindfold boxing with bells, Marlio vs. Gaffredi; 24, act by Mike Dureo; 25, 50-yard dash; 26, team boxing, blindfolded; 27, 125-pound boxing, DePasquale vs. Calabrese; 28, C. U. quartette.

On Saturday night the C. U. boxing team engages Temple University

Johnson Holding Own In His Battle for Life

St. Louis, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Ban Johnson, former Cincinnati newspaperman, who forced the National League to capitulate when the American League moguls decided to become a major baseball organization 30 years ago, tonight was "holding his own" against twin enemies to his health. At St. John's Hospital, where the veteran baseball executive is fighting diabetes and a general breakdown, it was reported his condition is still serious.

Dr. Robert F. Hyland, Johnson's physician, ordered a blood transfusion last week which bettered the former czar's condition, temporarily at least, as Johnson rallied in spirit and his naturally vigorous mind responded.

Maryland Is Rated Fourth In Dixie Court Tournament

Old Liners Second in Standing, However. Meet Louisiana U. in Opening Game at Atlanta on Friday.

WHILE rating second place in the matter of wins and losses, Maryland University's quintet is selected fourth best of the sixteen teams which will open play Friday at Atlanta for the Southern Conference basket ball title.

The tournament committee, in announcing the pairings, placed Alabama, 1930 champion, at the top of the list with Georgia, Kentucky and Maryland following in that order. The percentages show Georgia first with only one loss in sixteen games; Maryland second with one loss in nine; Alabama third with eleven wins and two defeats, and Kentucky fourth with eight victories and three defeats.

Old Liners Off Thursday For Tourney.

Maryland's squad of eight players and Coaches Burton Shipley and Jack Faber will depart for the scene of the tourney Thursday night. The Gold and Black is paired against Louisiana State University in the first round at 7 o'clock (C. S. T.) Friday night.

While the committee's announcement did not expressly say so, it is believed that the winner of the Maryland-L. S. U. game will meet the winner of the Alabama-Tennessee contest in the second round. In this case Maryland is figured to dispose of L. S. U., one of the weaker sisters of the conference, but to encounter the hardest sort of opposition from Alabama.

The committee composed of H. J. Stegeman, Georgia; W. A. Alexander, Georgia Tech; Gus Tebell, Virginia; C. P. Miles, V. P. I.; A. Boles, Kentucky, and W. C. Smith, Tulane, selected Alabama last season to win the tournament.

Two Old Liners Still to Be Named for Squad.

Maryland's title-seeking personnel has been determined with the exception of two players. Those definitely picked by Coach Shipley are George Chalmers, Ed Ronkin, Ed Morris, Bozie Berger, Charlie May and Frenchy Coban. The other two will be named from Bus Pitzer, Bob Wilson, Skippy Faber and Fred Stieber.

Following are the first round tournament pairings and the standings of the teams including games played Saturday:

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 22.—Clifton Park, champions of the Winter Indoor Tennis League in 1926, 1927, 1928 and 1929, regained the title it yielded to the Washington All-Stars last year on the bleached wooden courts within the Fifth Regiment Armory this afternoon when it captured four of the eight matches played against the District's representatives in the final and championship deciding match of the wintry circuit.

The ninth match was not completed. In it Dooly Mitchell and Bill Buchanan, the District outfits No. 1 doubles team, had lost the first and won the second set from Bob Elliott and Ed LaFleur. The third set was deadlocked at 10—10, when the players decided to call it a day.

Washington went into the match yesterday with the cognizance that if it won eight of the nine matches the title would be gained again. Things began to look dark for Washington when Frank Shore, playing No. 3 position, was swept aside by Aaron Miller, Baltimore junior, to the tune of 6—2, 6—1. Colin Stam was the other District player to drop a singles match, wilting before the fierce chops of Ralph Robinson by the score 6—3, 6—2.

Yeomans Win Thriller.

Dooly Mitchell, Bil Buchanan, Bob Considine and Ed Yoemans carried the District's colors to victory in the singles. The most hotly contested match of the four was the one in which Ed Yoemans defeated Walter Taylor, veteran Baltimore chop stroke artist, 6—3, 3—6, 6—1. Dooly Mitchell produced the finest tennis of the day in singles in his straight set victory over Ed LaFleur.

Washington could no nothing in the way of a victory in the doubles, although the Clifton Parkmen were pressed to the limit to score their victories.

SINGLES.

Dooly Mitchell (W.) defeated Ed LaFleur, 6—2, 6—3; Aaron Miller (C.) defeated Frank Shore, 6—2, 6—1; Bill Buchanan (W.) defeated Bob Elliott, 10—8, 6—2; Bob Considine (W.) defeated Bob Taylor, 6—2, 8—6; Ed Yeomans (W.) defeated Walter Taylor, 6—3, 3—6, 6—1; Ralph Robinson (C.) defeated Colin Stam, 6—3, 6—2.

DOUBLES.

Miller and Bob Taylor defeated Considine and Ed Yeomans, 6—1, 2—6, 7—5; Robinson and Walter Taylor defeated Shore and Clyde Yeomans, 9—7, 6—3; Mitchell and Buchanan vs. Elliott and LaFleur, 7—5, 5—7, 10—10.

PENSACOLA PRIZE TO FARRELL

Pro Star Rallies to Retain Title With 286 Score.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 22 (A.P.).—For the second successive year Johnny Farrell, slight St. Augustine, Fla., professional, came from behind here this afternoon to post a 72-hole score of 286 and win first money in the $3,000 Pensacola open golf tournament.

Three strokes behind the leaders at the halfway mark, and a single stroke in the rear at the end of 54 holes, Farrell unloosed his best round of the tournament, a sparkling 70, one under par, as his closing bid. The pace-setters at the three-quarters mark, Willie MacFarlane and Denny Shute, slumped back to 74's and finished in a tie for second place with 289's.

Farrell opened his tournament charge with a 73 yesterday morning and every succeeding round found him shaving a stroke off his previous score. His four-round totals showed eighteen-hole scores of 73—72—71—70.

Farrell Gains $800 Prize.

The victory brought Farrell the $800 winner's share of the money spoils. Shute, who led at the end of 36 holes with 142, needed 73 for his morning round allowing MacFarlane, the former open champion from Tuckahoe, N. Y., to catch him with a snappy 70. In the afternoon both slumped back to 74s, finishing in a deadlock as Farrell shot past with his subpar round.

After a poor start with rounds of 73 and 76, Lew Waldron, Chicago veteran, put together two good rounds of 71 and 70 today to forge into fourth place with 290.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, took a high 75 this afternoon, after three previous steady rounds of 71—72—73 to tie with Whiffy Cox, of Brooklyn, for fifth place. Horton Smith, of New York, and Harry Cooper, of Chicago, were two other expert campaigners who used too many strokes on the final rounds and finished together at 292.

MONEY WINNERS.

Johnny Farrell, St. Augustine, 73, 72, 71, 70—286—$800.
Willie Macfarlane, Tuckahoe, N. Y., 73, 72, 76, 74—295—$500.
Denny Shute, Columbus, Ohio, 69, 73, 73, 74—289—$360.
Lew Waldron, Chicago, 73, 76, 71, 70—290—$300.
Al Espinosa, Chicago, 71, 72, 73, 75—291—$175.
Whitty Cox, Brooklyn, 73, 69, 74, 75—291—$175.
Harry Cooper, Chicago, 71, 72, 74, 75—292—$112.50.
Horton Smith, New York, 71, 73, 74, 74—292—$112.50.
Charles Guest, Detroit, 74, 73, 76, 69—294—$75.
Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., 74, 72, 75, 74—295—$50.
Abe Espinosa, Chicago, 76, 73, 74, 72—295—$50.
Ralph Guldahl, Dallas, 72, 78, 73, 73—296—$50.
Herman Barron, Port Chester, N. Y., 74, 73, 75, 73—297—$25.
Joe Esar, Waco, Tex., 74, 76, 74, 74—298—$25.

SWANN MOTORS WIN.

The Swann Motors quintet added another victory yesterday afternoon by trouncing the Kensington Howitzers, 30 to 22, on the Kensington Armdry floor. Hart, of the winners, collected nine field goals and one foul, to top both teams in scoring.

For games with the Swanns, call Manager Robert Doyle at Adams 1126.

Week's Fistic Spotlight on Florida

Walker Is Favorite Over Risko for Tomorrow.

King Tut and Petrolle Clash Friday; Bout Promising.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—The fistic barometer points due South this week as Mickey Walker, a slightly larger "toy bulldog" than he used to be, prepares for a ten-round engagement with old "Jawn" Risko, of Cleveland, at Miami Fla., Tuesday night.

Walker, whose campaign among the heavyweights so far has been conspicuously successful, will be favored over the veteran Clevelander despite the fact he will have to give away huge gobs of weight—something like 25 or 30 pounds. Mickey holds one decision over Risko and experts believe the game little fighting man from Rumson, N. J., can repeat.

Deadly Sluggers To Clash.

It takes an outdoor extravaganza such as the Walker-Risko bout to overshadow Madison Square Garden's card this week, for the garden is offering a return battle between those deadly sluggers, Billy Petrolle, of Fargo, N. Dak., and King Tut, of Minneapolis. They will battle it out on Friday night at ten rounds or less.

A decisive defeat at Tut's hands forced Petrolle into retirement a year or so ago. Then he came back with a bang, whipping one lightweight after another and climaxed a spectacular campaign with a crushing victory over Jimmy McLarnin. He took on Tut again a few weeks ago and was knocked out in a round. If he fails to win on Friday, Petrolle threatens to quit the ring for good.

Fights on the national schedule include:

MONDAY—At Philadelphia—Harry Bltiman, Philadelphia, vs. Lew Massey, Philadelphia; Pete Nebo, Key West, Fla., vs. Steve Smith, Bridgeport, Conn.; all lightweights; each 10. At West Palm Beach, Fla.—Young Bob Godwin, Daytona Beach, vs. Gordon Fortenberry, light heavyweights, 10. At New York, Jamaica Arena—Ted Sandwina, Sioux City, Iowa, vs. Umberto Torriani, Italy; heavyweights; 8. At Toledo, Ohio—Eddie Shea, Chicago, vs. Billy Shaw; featherweights; 10.

TUESDAY—At Akron, Ohio—K. O. Christner, Akron, vs. Emmet Rocco, Bellwood City, Pa.; heavyweights; 10. At Miami, Fla.—Johnny Risko, Cleveland, vs. Mickey Walker, Rumson, N. J.; heavyweights; 10. At Indianapolis—Phil Zwick, Cleveland, vs. Midget Mike O'Dowd, Columbus, Ohio; featherweights; 10. At Oklahoma City—Cowboy Phelps, Montana, vs. Sailor Earlehtt, Philadelphia; light heavyweights; 10. At Los Angeles—Ernie Schaaf, Boston, vs. Dynamite Jackson, Santa Monica; heavyweights; 10.

WEDNESDAY—At Jersey City—Tony Canzoneri, New York, vs. Joey Kaufman; lightweights; nontitle; 10. At Oakland, Calif.—Bic Bor Peterson, New Orleans, vs. Hans Birzle, Oakland; heavyweights; 10. At Los Angeles—Delos (Kid) Williams, New Orleans, vs. Claude Varner, Bakersfield, Calif.

THURSDAY—At Boston—Larry Johnson, Chicago, vs. Lou Scozza, Buffalo, N. Y.; light heavyweights, and Johnny Dundee, New York, vs. Jose Diaz, Cuba; lightweights; each 10.

FRIDAY—At New York, Madison Square Garden—Billy Petrolle, Fargo, N. Dak., vs. King Tut, Minneapolis; lightweights; Bucky Lawless, Syracuse, N. Y., vs. Baby Joe Kaus, Los Angeles; welterweights, and Eddie Ran, Poland, vs. Billy Light, St. Paul; welterweights; each 10. At San Francisco—Andy Divodi, New York, vs. Battling Bozo—Andy Divodi, New York, vs. Battling Bozo—Wichita, Kans., Negro; welterweights; 10. At Hollywood—Billy Townsend, Vancouver, vs. Bobby Reister, Alhambra; 10.

Lott and Van Ryn In Matches Today

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Internationally known tennis stars, here to participate in tomorrow's inauguration of the Pan-American championship, disported in exhibition matches today before a gallery of resort colonists and sports fans.

Ricardo Tapia, tennis champion of Mexico, and Gustavo Vollmer, ranking No. 1 player of Cuba, renewed an old rivalry in a three-set singles match, but Tapia could not stand the pace, falling before Vollmer's drives and volleys, 2—6, 6—3, 6—1.

After the singles match Tapia and Gus Feuer, Miami ace, paired for doubles against Marcel Rainville, Canadian net star, and J. Gilbert Hall, Orange, N. J., former Canadian indoor title holder. Rainville and Hall played easily together to win in straight sets, 6—3, 8—6.

George Lott, Davis Cup star, will get into play in the afternoon, when he meets the winner of the morning round between Marvin Greer, Miami, and Bud Panzer, Cincinnati. At the same time Vollmer will meet the winner of a contest between David Fairfield and Philip Eckert, both of Miami.

Tapia is matched in tomorrow's singles with Nat Williams, Miami, while John Van Ryn, of New Jersey, another seeded star, is booked for a second round match.

IN the same State with the natural Washington Monument there is a similar rock formation in the likeness of Lincoln. The face of the Washington Rock faces skyward, but the Lincoln profile is high up on a mountainside in Bear Creek Canyon, near Denver, and looks out over a valley.

One black sheep is usually enough, and sometimes too much, for one family. A single black lamb is exceedingly rare, but they go around in twosomes on the farm of L. H. Blake, on Laporte, Ind. Blake has named the twins Amos and Mandy—for sufficient reasons.

Harold Farmer broke the Missouri State broad jumping record on April 22, 1920. Farmer's teammate, Marmaduke Medley, jumped next and took Farmer's record away from him almost before [illegible] that he had made it.

International Field of Track Stars Seek A. A. U. Titles Wednesday Night

Spitz and Osborne to Renew Pole Vault Rivalry.

S. Dreyfuss, Pirate Vice President, Dead

Conger Faces Another Formidable Field in '1,000'.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—All the high spots of the indoor track and field season are to be brought together in one meet this week as the board track performers gather in Madison Square Garden Wednesday night for the National A. A. U. indoor championships.

For the young college stars, it is just another big meet since their efforts are directed toward the intercollegiates on March 7, but for the great array of club runners and for the two famous foreign invaders, Seraphin Martin and Paul Keller, of France, it is the season's biggest event.

Both Keller and Martin are entered for the 600-yard and the 1,000-yard runs, but if the large fields compel the running of trial heats, they will split their efforts. The size of the entry lists makes it probable that Keller will run only the 600 and Martin will start in the 1,000, again facing America's leading miler, Ray Conger, of the Illinois A. C., Dr. Paul Martin, of Switzerland, the defending champion; Dale Letts, of the University of Chicago, and a few other stars.

Phil Edwards, great Negro runner from the Hamilton, Ont., Olympic Club, who now holds the 600-yard title, also is entered in both feature races. Other leading entries in the 600 include Alex Wilson, Canadian quarter-mile champion, running for Notre Dame; Eddie Roll, of the Newark, A. C., national junior champion, and Bernie McCafferty, Holy Cross ace.

The great high jumping duel between George Spitz, of New York University, and Harold Osborn, of the Illinois A. C., which carried Spitz to a new indoor record, is scheduled for renewal, as is the triangular pole vaulting argument between Fred Sturdy, of the Los Angeles A. C.; Tommy Warne, of Northwestern, and Barney Berlinger, of Penn.

The long list of champions entered takes in nineteen American titleholders, ten national junior champions and the holders of twenty assorted intercollegiate titles. Entries come from eighteen States in addition to France, Switzerland and Canada.

MORELAND WINS.

Houston Country Club, Houston, Tex., Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Gus Moreland, 19-year-old Dallas golfer, today won the championship of the Houston Country Club's seventeenth annual tournament, defeating Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, 2 up in 36 holes.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Sam Dreyfuss, vice president and treasurer of the Pittsburgh National League Baseball Club, died today. He was the son of Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pirates. Dreyfuss, a victim of pneumonia, was born in Louisville, Ky., November 9, 1896, and graduated from Princeton University in 1919.

He was well known in the baseball world and was considered one of the best informed executives in the diamond sport. In addition to his parents, he is survived by his wife and a 3-year-old son, Barney Dreyfuss 2d.

Three St. John's Courtmen Picked on All-Prep Team

By BOB CONSIDINE.

A COMMUNICATION to the high school reporter of this paper recommends the advisability of this paper's selecting an all-prep basket ball team. The move is requested with a view to checking the descent in interest in prep school athletics and at the same time rewarding the scholastic players for meritorious services on the board.

The slipshod methods used by the prep schools in scheduling games almost precludes all possibility of arriving at any set standard whereby constructive comparisons could be drawn. Few of the local preperies care to play against each other, this being a fact in football more so than basket ball.

St. Alban's, which, with Bob Freeman, jumping center, is certainly one of the finest schoolboy outfits in town, plays only Landon and Friends among the local teams. Emerson plays only Eastern.

Prep School League Advocated.

At least in basket ball the prep school ought to get together on some mutual working basis. Basket ball is another question from football. There is reason enough why there should be no intercourse between the schools in football. Emerson and Devitt, because they receive in their portals regularly several players who have had long reigns in the line-up of public high school teams, stand well above such schools as Gonzaga, Friends and St. John's. But on the basket ball floor sheer bulk is not always a premium.

The Business High Team in the public high series is a good example of this logic. Not one Stenog player stood 6 feet, the average running around 5 foot 6. Yet they battled gamely throughout the whole series and had they not lost Lucas in midseason might have come out on top at the end.

However, my correspondent relieves me of all strain in the matter of picking this all-prep by inclosing selections which he says is the result of much deliberation and not a little research:

FIRST TEAM.
L. F.—Fred Scheele, St. John's.
R. F.—Gene Augusterfer, St. John's.
Center—Bob Freeman, St. Alban's.
L. G.—Alton Rabbitt, Emerson.
R. G.—Mike Scanlon, St. John's.

SECOND TEAM.
L. F.—Fletcher, St. Alban's.
R. F.—Nolan, Gonzaga.
Center—Graf, Woodward.
L. G.—Guigler, St. John's.
R. G.—Fitzgerald, Gonzaga.

New Stadium Will Seat 100,000

Conference in Florida Reveals Chicago Out as Scene.

Detroit an Alternative Under Plans for June Bout.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Selection of Cleveland, with Detroit as an alternative, instead of Chicago, for the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling heavyweight championship match in June loomed as a strong possibility today after a conference between Damon Runyon, representing the New York Milk Fund, and the managers of the principals, Joe Jacobs and Pa Stribling.

The conference followed the arrival of Jacobs and Schmeling, who will appear in an exhibition three-rounder on the card featuring the ten-round joust Tuesday night at the Madison Square Garden Arena here between Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, and Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight.

"We have an attractive offer from Cleveland, where a municipal stadium, seating at least 100,000 spectators, will be available the latter part of June," Runyon declared. "Selection of this city may furnish an ideal solution to the problems that have arisen so far in attempting to arrange the Stribling-Schmeling match either for Chicago or somewhere near New York.

Managers Favor Cleveland.

"'Pa' Stribling and Jacobs both have told me they would like to have the match held in Cleveland, which has never put on a heavyweight title fight.

"Detroit also is regarded as a fine location for the match. Then there is the bid of Jersey City, where a new stadium is under course of construction in addition to the dickering with Chicago. However, no definite announcement of the site will be made until 90 days before the fight."

To clear up any misunderstanding over the arrangements for the Stribling-Schmeling battle, Runyon added: "We are working in cooperation with the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Illinois, but the Milk Fund signd this match and its interests will be protected in any arrangements made.

"The Garden Corporation was invited to participate in the promotion and at the same time, enabled to handle the second title match of the year between the winner and Primo Carnera.

"The Milk Fund reserves the privilege of promoting the first defense of the title by the ultimate winner, in 1932, in New York, if it is at all possible."

Principals in Exhibitions.

Schmeling and Stribling, in the interests of the ballyhoo for their forthcoming title fight, will make their first joint ring appearance in exhibitions of three rounds each on the Walker-Risko card, under the promotion of "Pa" Stribling.

Walker, with his hold on the middleweight crown apparently of little importance to him, hopes to insert himself into the heavyweight picture by a decisive victory over the rugged Risko. If he wins, the toy bulldog may be matched this summer with Jack Sharkey, who has been sidetracked in the year's championship schedule.

Auteuil Race Card Attracts 50,000 Fans

Auteuil, France, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—A warm sun and spring-like weather brought out 50,000 spectators at Auteuil Race Track today. Poisson d'Avril, owned by Viscount Robert de Rivaud, won the feature event, the Clermont Tonnerre Stakes Steeplechase at 3 miles. Clarimus was second and Flechette third in the field of ten starters. Four horses fell.

Poisson d'Avril, a son of Potaufeu out of Muskegee, won by three lengths and paid 5 to 1 in the betting. The race was worth 83,000.

EQUIPOISE, TWENTY GRAND TOP DERBY HOPEFULS

Records Show Pair Even Match

C. V. Whitney's Colt Worked Hard as Juvenile.

Rivals are Contrasts in Build; Mud Hinders Both.

(This is the first of a series dealing with the outsanding 3-year-olds of the turf).

By ORLO ROBERTSON.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—Again the 3-year-olds are rallying for the turf's richest battles, and once again the Whitney clan threatens to dominate the field.

C. V. Whitney, heir to the famous Eton Blue and Brown capped silks, will be represented by the rugged Equipoise, leading 2-year-old money winner of 1930 and the future-book favorite to win the Preakness and Kentucky Derby. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree Stable holds an even more powerful set of candidates, numerically at least, in a quintet of stake runners headed by Twenty Grand.

There is little to choose between the two colts, if their juvenile performances and the place they hold in the future-book ratings are any criterion. The C. V. Whitney ace is being quoted at various prices, from 4 to 1 to 6 to 1, to win the derby on May 16, while Mrs. Whitney's speedster is considered a good thing at 6, 7 or 8 to 1, depending on the bookmaker.

Twenty Grand Forced To New Record.

The pair met three times last year and twice Twenty Grand came out with the decision, although he was forced to a new juvenile mile record of 1:36 to win by a nose in the Kentucky Jockey Club Stakes at Churchill Downs. A week previous Twenty Grand, with eleven pounds pull in weights, took the measure of Equipoise by a length in the juvenile championships at Aqueduct. In the Pimlico Futurity, however, Equipoise was much the better. He ran one of the greatest races of the year, coming from far behind to defeat his Greentree rival in the mud going away.

Behind that sensational victory at Pimlico lay the heaviest campaign any juvenile of the season was asked to face. Starting early in April down in Maryland, he went to the post 17 times, winning eight races and $156,835. Although Equipoise outran Jamestown financially, the latter was generally accepted as the champion because he defeated the Whitney runner twice. In the Belmont Futurity, however, only inches separated the pair at the finish of the seven furlong jaunt.

Slimly Built Equipoise Toted High Weight.

Although lightly constructed and slimly built, Equipoise stood up under the rigorous training applied by Trainer Fred Hopkins. He always carried plenty of weight and beat the best with exception of Jamestown. Vander Pool, unbeaten in eleven races, tok the measure of Equipoise in the Aberdeen, but the Whitney colt reversed the decision in the Youthful Stakes at Jamaica only to be disqualified.

Twenty Grand is built exactly opposite from Equipoise. Bigger boned than Jamestown, with a strong, tapering neck set firmly on powerful shoulders, he appears to be a natural route runner. He was raced carefully, obviously in preparation for his 3-year-old campaign. His debut came late in April when he won with plenty to spare. For nearly three months he was allowed to develop and then sent out at Empire City, finishing behind Phantom Star.

Whitney Star Hugs The Rail.

Again he was taken out of action, returning in September and before retiring for the winter started six more times and won three races. He is not considered a good mudder but has the peculiarity of wanting to hug the rail and come through on the inside, saving much ground.

Twenty Grand is the chief hope of the Greentree Stable for the big stakes, but he probably will not be campaigned hard, the bulk of the work being left to Surf Board, Comic, Anchors Aweigh and Checkerberry.

—Miami Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE Homestead Allowance Purse, for 3-year-olds and upward, feature today at Miami, has attracted a well-balanced field. C. V. Whitney's MURKY CLOUD appears the solid horse in this field and is selected to win. His defeat last week by Dedicate at 6 furlongs should cut little figure in the calculations in this race.

SWINFIELD, a W. J. Salmon castoff which showed sparkling form a few days ago to win from Crossbones in 1:11 1-5, seems the most formidable contender against MURKY CLOUD, and can go a route. OPPONENT, a W. Wentzel entry, is very fast, but is rated as a sprinter. He should get third money. The track became fast over night at Hialeah and this field should run close to the record there for a mile and 70 yards.

FIRST RACE—HAZEL GUMBERTS is the class of this race, and should not miss. RED CROSS SISTER will be the contender, her drawback being that the distance is too short. BRUSH has shown recent improvement and will earn brackets soon. She should get third money.

SECOND RACE—ARGIEN is selected to win. ARGIEN in his last race was fourth to Chinkee, and has worked well. SIBERIA has shown speed, especially when he ran third to Dove in fast time, making a fast stretch run. PORT DEN is a dangerous contender.

THIRD RACE—CANDY PIG should win, relying on the J. W. Bean gelding to repeat his winning effort in his last race, when he beat Jack Berry and Woodgain by three lengths. GRIFFIN is the dangerous contender. NEALON KAY is a reliable plater and should hold the others safe.

FOURTH RACE—MORTIME should repeat, and appears to be the outstanding favorite of the day. This gelded son of Morvich should have little difficulty in winning over this field. TALIS, third to Stupendous last out, should be the contender, and will have stable backing. OSLO and RAMUS will fight it out for third money.

SIXTH RACE—PLAYFELLOWS DREAM is selected. She seems to be improving now, for last time out she was second to the fast Tony Joe. LIGHT VIEW, which was second in his last start, and in a previous race beat Wisecrack, should be the contender. NURSERY RHYMES is fresh from an easy victory over Strong Tackle, and will figure in the race. BLACK DIAMOND will bear watching.

SEVENTH RACE—BRIGHT SPANGLE is due to repeat under the light impost of 106 pounds. He beat his field with ease last week and is dropping 9 pounds off that race. MY SCOOP, also a winner last out, looks like the contender, and should hold the others safe.

EAGLES LOSE IN THRILLER BY POINT

Philadelphians Take Game, 37-36, in Final Minute.

WITH 10 seconds to go and his team trailing the Skinker Eagles by 1 point, "Pug" Weiner, guard on the Philadelphia Hebrews, national Jewish champions, yesterday afternoon provided a fitting end to the most sensational contest played at the Silver Spring Armory this season by sinking a pretty one-hand shot from side court for the points which gave his outfit a 37-to-36 verdict.

Two more evenly matched quintets never appeared on a local floor. From the opening whistle to the closing, both teams assiduously practiced the "Alphonse-Gaston" point-making act, with no more than 4 points separating the clubs at any time during the torrid engagement. So well did they perform this little act that the count was deadlocked an even dozen times.

Visitors Show Skill At Foul Shooting.

What small advantage the Skinkers possessed in the ability to register field goals, was more than offset by the excellent work of their hosts from the foul strip. Outscored from the field, 15 to 12, the visitors made good on 13 out of 14 foul tosses.

The play in both halves was the same, first one team and then the other possessing a small lead. The Eaglues enjoyed a slight 21 to 20 advantage at the intermission.

A forerunner of the Skinker-Philadelphia battle was the preliminary attraction between the Griffith-Consumers and the St. Mary's Lyceum outfits, which the Griffs won, 24 to 23. This game also was of the nip and tuck variety, with neither team holding a pronounced edge over the other.

Bob Lyles, of the Griffs, tossed three field goals and two fouls to lead both teams in scoring. Hickey, a teammate, and Genamere and Hamilton, of the Alexandria quintet, also played bang-up games.

Marines Win, 36-27, From Norfolk Police

Special to The Washington Post.

Norfolk Naval Base, Feb. 22.—The Quantico Marines today finished a five-game jaunt with a hard-earned victory over the highly touted Norfolk Police tossers. An extra period was necessary before the Devil Dogs could cop the verdict, 36 to 27.

It was a real battle all the way. At the half, the Police led, 14 to 13, with the two teams deadlocked at 26-all at the end of the second. In the overtime period, however, the Marines scored 10 points to but 1 for the Cops.

EARNINGS FOR 1930 39 PER CENT LESS

Check-Up Reveals Railroad Reports Are Considered Least Favorable.

New York, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—The latest and most complete tabulation of 1930 corporate earnings reports to be prepared indicates a shrinkage in net income of 39 per cent from that unprecedentedly prosperous year, 1929.

This is a somewhat more severe shrinkage than earlier tabulations had shown, and is in keeping with the tendency of the less pleasing earnings reports to appear later. This tabulation, prepared by the Standard Statistics Co. for the Associated Press, includes 706 companies, and as there are no duplications through inclusion of subsidiary companies, is believed to be more inclusive than other calculations showing a larger number.

Off About 40 Per Cent.

Standard Statistics Co. believes the trend thus far tends to confirm its forecast that aggregate corporate profits in 1930 shrank about 40 per cent from 1929. A thorough tabulation will be impossible until well into the spring months.

The railroads continue to make the least satisfactory comparison, a total of 63 carriers showing a drop of 44 per cent. So far, there are reports from 573 miscellaneous industrials, excluding for purposes of better comparison the United States Steel and General Motors Corporations. They show a drop of 36 per cent.

The utilities, however, continue to bolster up the general average. Seventy-one reports now available show a decline of only 1 per cent. The utilities, for which comparable figures are available, furthermore, show substantial gains over 1924 and 1928, while the rails and industrials are well below those years.

Of major industrial and specialty groups for which figures are now available, cigarettes alone showed a gain over 1929, amounting to 11 per cent.

Least Favorable Results.

The least favorable results were in the tire and rubber industries, cotton and cotton goods, and sugar production, which in the aggregate reported deficits, although they were in the red in the preceding year. Apparel was also unfavorable, showing a drop of 79 per cent from 1929.

Among the more favorable showings were motion picture theaters, &c., off only 9 per cent, and food products, with a drop of 11 per cent. Other groups showed the following declines: Railroad equipment, 14 per cent; advertising and printing, 16 per cent; meat packing, 22 per cent; cigar and manufactured tobacco, as distinct from cigarettes, 24 per cent; paper and paper products, 25 per cent; chemicals, 30 per cent; oil, 31 per cent; leather and shoes, 32 per cent; retail trade, 33 per cent; building and real estate, 34 per cent; machinery and machine equipment, 40 per cent; iron and steel, 44 per cent, and automobiles and trucks, 49 per cent.

LEGGE ASKS FARMER TO CUT PRODUCTION

Plan Urged as Only Way to Regulate Prices; Wheat Case Cited.

New York, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—The farmer's only salvation, in the opinion of Alexander Legge, whose pending retirement from the chairmanship of the Farm Board has been announced, is "drastic restriction of production."

"The Government," Mr. Legge will say in the issue of the Country Home to be published Tuesday, "has backed the Farm Board with a fund of half a billion dollars, and the question is: What has the Farm Board done with that money, and what does it hope to do for the farmer?

"For 62 months, without interruption, the visible supply of wheat in this country has been greater than it was in the same month of the preceding year. In July, 1926, the surplus was around 100,000,000 bushels. That was too much. But since then it has grown steadily until, in July, 1930, it was 274,000,000 bushels.

World Market Hopeless.

"The world market for American wheat is pretty hopeless. American farmers, to sell their wheat abroad now, would have to accept 20 cents less than they are getting at home. The only thing that is keeping foreign wheat from coming into this country now is our tariff of 42 cents.

"Our farmers must lower their costs of production on wheat and corn like the men with the steel factories and the automobile factories. But they must also adjust their production to the potential demand. The farmer has never done that.

"It seems to be hard for the farmer to realize he can make more by raising less. Of course, if the price is the same he will make more money when he raises 1,000 bushels than when he raises 800 bushels. But if he raises 1,000 bushels instead of 800 when 800 is all he can sell, the price won't be the same.

Potato Crop Cited.

"Look at the potato crop. The market can normally consume 400,000,000 bushels. If the farmers raise 10 per cent less than that, they get a high price and make money. If they raise 10 per cent more they have to accept a ruinous price.

"Right now we have an illustration of the live stock industry. Hog production in recent years has been pretty well balanced with demand, and prices have resisted the decline. There has been overproduction of sheep and prices have collapsed.

"In 1923 the South produced 10,200,000 bales of cotton and sold it for $1,600,000,000. That looked good for the cotton planter. If he made that much on 10,000,000 bales, what could he do with 12, 15, 18 million bales? So he kept increasing his crop until in 1926 he raised 18,000,000 bales. And for that he got a billion dollars—$600,000,000 less than for a crop 75 per cent smaller.

Surplus of Wheat.

"Various plans have been offered to handle the export of the so-called exportable surplus of wheat. Well, my suggestion is to abolish it. What's the use of raising an exportable surplus when there is no place to export it profitably? The farmers must bring about a condition where American farmers will no longer raise wheat for export.

"How are we to do that? Well, there is only one way—by organization. And this brings us to the major effort of the farm board.

"I suppose a lot of people will throw up their hands and say: 'For the Lord's sake!' You don't plan to start some more farmers' organizations. Haven't the farmers got enough organization already?

Farm Bodies in Plenty.

"Yes, plenty. If all the farm organization secretaries were to come to Washington in a body and form into a procession and pass, four abreast, in review before the Capitol, the parade would be hours in passing.

"What must be done is to encourage the farmers to join their local cooperatives and to encourage the local cooperatives to become affiliated with the national association. When a majority of the wheat growers belong, the farmers' marketing problem will be well on the way to a solution.

"Will the farmers join? That is the question, and on its answer hinges the success of the whole plan. Other farmers have done it in other crops than wheat. Take the walnut growers. They control 90 per cent of their crop. And they sold their crop last year, in spite of all the depression, at the best price in its history. And this year's crop opened at a cent and a half higher than last year's."

and then dropped again, a dozen slugs in his body. Chileno, running close behind him, leaped high over the body, then dropped in a heap beside his compatriot. Kilman, still clutching the cable, started to flee in another direction and ran into the devastating fire of the second ambush.

Suspected Aids Flee.

As the clatter of the guns died out two automobiles, parked without lights along a roadside adjacent to the prison and believed to have contained aids, roared away toward Chicago. Guards sent a hail of slugs after the machines and two prison officials set out in pursuit. The chase continued for several miles, but the pursuers were eluded near Lemont, Ill.

Back in the prison, the 1,800 convicts, who had heard the fusillade and interpreted its meaning, made the dawn weird with their yelling. The noise continued until about 6:30 o'clock and then quieted down.

Although the atmosphere was tense, officials expected no further trouble. At breakfast and during the noonday meal the prisoners were kept under double guard, but there was no sign of disturbance.

'Flu' of 1918-19 Hit Poor More Than Rich

(Associated Press.)

The Public Health Service has discovered that the popular impression that the influenza epidemic of 1918-19 "hit the rich and poor alike" was true only in part.

Conceding the epidemic of those two years was "very prevalent among all classes of persons," the service said in a statement yesterday that detailed studies indicated "the lower the economic level, the higher the attack rate."

"This relationship," it said, "was found to persist even after allowance had been made for the influence of the factors of color, sex and age, and certain other conditions."

No observations were made in connection with the recent and more mild form of influenza.

pair to the death house, where they spent their last hours tonight.

It was barely possible that the lovers might be allowed to say goodby to each other tonight.

Warden Ashe would not say definitely whether he would permit such a meeting.

Sixth Couple to Pay.

New York, Feb. 22 (A.P.).—When Irene Schroeder and Walter Glenn Dague go to the electric chair tomorrow in Pennsylvania, it will be the sixth time in the history of the United States a man and a woman have been executed together.

Mrs. Schroeder will be the twenty-eighth woman to have paid the death penalty and the eleventh to die in Pennsylvania for a crime. The first execution of a woman took place in that State in 1781, when Mary Hall was put to death for burglary, which then was a capital offense.

All five couples who have figured in double executions had murdered the spouses of one of the principals. Dague and Mrs. Schroeder, however, have been sentenced to death for killing a State highway patrolman who had pursued them after a robbery.

First Execution of Pair.

The first execution of a man and a woman was at Preston, Ga., in 1873, when Mrs. Susan Eberhart and Enoch Spann were hanged for the murder of Spann's wife.

In the other four "triangle" cases which resulted in murder and then double executions, wives conspired with lovers against husbands.

Electrocution of Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray at Sing Sing, January 12, 1928, for killing her heavily insured husband received the most notoriety. It was the eighth and most recent execution of a woman in New York.

Latest Case in South.

The latest exaction of the lives of a man and a woman because one of them had been freed from marriage through murder was in Louisiana. Mrs. Ada Bonner Leboeuf and Dr. Thomas E. Dreher were hanged February 1, 1929, for shooting her husband, James Leboeuf, of Morgan City, La.

New Jersey was the second State to take to the gallows a couple who had killed in the hope of finding a way to the marriage altar. Mrs. Martha Meierhoffer and Edward Lemon, who had helped her to become a widow, were hanged in Essex County in 1874.

George Smith and Catharine Miller paid with their lives in Lycoming County, Pa., in 1881 for murdering her husband.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Modern Laundry Saves Money By Saving Clothes

Manhattan Expert Explains Net Bag System

FAR SUPERIOR TO OLD HOME METHODS

Clothes Actually Look Better And Wear Longer

Present-day laundry methods, which preserve clothes as well as clean them, are far superior to the old home method of rubbing and scrubbing, according to Mr. E. F. Wesely, chief of the Research Department of Manhattan Laundry. Mr. Wesely attributes a large part of the Manhattan Laundry's success to their Net Bag System of washing.

Manhattan Laundry, long a pioneer in developing better laundering methods, adopted the Net Bag for washing clothes six years ago. Clothes, they agreed, could be washed just as clean in net bags and would wear longer if rubbing and scrubbing were eliminated. Today, Manhattan still features the Net Bag System, and the activities of the Laundry's Research Department are constantly directed toward the perfection of cleaner and safer methods of washing clothes. Manhattan Laundry justly deserves the slogan: "We Save You Money by Saving Your Clothes."

Manhattan famous Net Bag System of washing, as described by Mr. Wesely, follows: First, the clothes are assorted according to their color and material into individual net bags which bear the customer's name and contain only that customer's articles. Safe in the nets and protected from all metal or other hard surfaces, the clothes go into the washers. Here they are subject to the gentle cleansing action of swirling hot suds which penetrates every single thread of each garment and loosens every particle of dirt. Only the purest of Palm Oil soaps and soft, filtered water are used in washing, after first having been inspected and tested by the Research Department. Many rinsings of fresh, clear water follow, removing every speck of dirt from the clothes and leaving the fabrics refreshed and clean. They are then dried, starched where necessary and ironed by the most modern methods.

That clothes wear longer and look better when washed in Net Bags has been proven by test after test. For instance, two shirts, exactly the same, are washed fifty times each, one in a net bag, the other by hand. At the end of the test the net-bag washed shirt showed absolutely no signs of wear, while the hand-washed shirt had become a sad combination of rough edges, torn seams and broken buttons. Other tests on all sorts of wearing apparel are being carried on regularly and in every case show the Net Bag System to be far superior in preserving the original sheen of the cloth. At Manhattan the Nets Get the Wear and the Clothes Get the Wash.

THREE-DAY COLLECTION DELIVERY

Manhattan Renders This Additional Service With No Extra Charge

Quite another Manhattan feature which has found great favor with Washington housewives is their 3-Day Collection and Delivery Service. In this highly developed system your clothes are collected one day, laundered to your order the next and delivered to you promptly the afternoon of the third day. For instance, if your clothes are collected Monday morning they are delivered Wednesday afternoon; called for Tuesday, back home Thursday, and so on. No delay. No worry. You know when you'll get your clothes when Manhattan has them. And there is no additional charge for this extra service.
